Senate Rejects Proposal To Legalize Beer, 61 To 24

NEW EFFORT TO LEGALIZE BEER LOSES

Tydings Amendment Is Turned Down in Consideration of Tax Measure

SOURCE OF REVENUE

Effort of Senator Bingham to Revise Alcoholic Content Also Defeated

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(UP)—The senate today rejected the purpose of taxation and as a source of revenue for a vast public construction program.

The Tydings amendment was defeated as the senate, still under a high speed schedule, continued consideration of the billion dollar tax bill.

The Tydings amendment would have legalized 2.75 per cent beer and taxed it three cents per pint. An effort by Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, to revise the proposed alcoholic content to four per cent was defeated, 60 to 23.

Tydings estimated the beer tax would raise $1,500,000,000 which would have been used to amortize a public works, river and harbor bond issue.

The vote on the Tydings amendment was 61 to 24.

The last previous prohibition vote in the senate was on January 21, when a Bingham resolution welcoming action by state for prohibition was defeated 55 to 15, with 25 senators not voting.

The four per cent beer gain over that vote was eight votes and the gain of the 2.75 per cent beer proposal over the January 21 record was nine votes.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR YOUNG CLARK

HOLLYWOOD, May 18.—(UP)—Funeral services were held today for William A. Clark III, capitalist, philanthropist and grandson of the noted Montana copper king. He was killed Sunday in an airplane crash near Cottonwood, Arizona.

Services were read at St. John's Episcopal church by Dr. George Davidson and interment was at the Clark family mausoleum in Hollywood cemetery.

Jack Lynch, local airplane pilot, died in the same crash that took Clark's life.

CARL LAEMMLE TO UNDERGO OPERATION

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(UP)—Carl Laemmle, sr., president of Universal Pictures, today was in John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he will submit to a major operation, it was learned here.

The operation will be performed as soon as his son, Carl Laemmle, jr., arrives there. Laemmle, jr., departed for the east last night.

SON OF STATE PRINTER LOSES LIFE IN CRASH

STOCKTON, Calif., May 18.—(UP)—Harry Hammond, Jr., son of the California state printer, was injured fatally when he drove his car against the rear end of a truck trailer six miles south of Byron early today. He died while being taken to a Stockton hospital.

Hammond, former San Francisco newspaper man who publishes a weekly paper at Byron, was returning there from Stockton when the accident occurred.

It was reported that the truck and trailer were parked at the side of the road. Hammond's car hit the trailer. He incurred a fractured skull, broken arm and broken leg. The truck driver, Bruce Goss, 30, of Fresno, flagged down a passenger train and had Hammond taken to Tracy. There, after being given emergency aid, he was placed in an ambulance and started for Stockton. He died before reaching the hospital.

Hammond graduated from the University of California and worked in San Francisco for some time before he became editor of the Byron Times, owned by his father, more than a year ago. He was 30 years old and is survived by his widow and 5-year-old daughter, Sonia.

NUDE BODY OF MAN FOUND IN BOX CAR

RENO, Nev., May 18.—(UP)—The nude, mutilated body of a man was found in an empty railroad box car today and police could discover no marks of identification in the small pile of personal belongings nearby.

The man, between 26 and 30 years old, had been strangled and his head had been battered. His partially dismembered body was wrapped in a sheet, and another cloth contained parts of his anatomy that had been cut away. He had been dead about four days.

The box car arrived here from Sacramento at 10:35 o'clock last night. Police were checking with Sacramento authorities in an attempt to establish the man's identity.

YOUTH CONFESSES KILLING FATHER

OROVILLE, Calif., May 18.—(UP)—Tony Luzovich, 17, was held by Sheriff C. W. Toland today after the youth assertedly confessed to slaying his father, Antone Luzovich, 43, prospector, during a quarrel April 21 in the Yankee Hill mining district near here.

Sheriff Toland said young Luzovich told him he shot his father with a .38 caliber revolver when the latter approached him brandishing a knife during the argument.

The quarrel, the sheriff went on to say, started when the youth was saying, "I'm not panning enough gold."

The boy told the sheriff, he said, that he threw the gun into the Feather river and then went to his home in Oroville. Several hours later he returned to the scene.

SUPER PARTY FOR JAPAN IS LIKELY

TOKIO, May 18.—(UP)—Formation of a "super party" government which would resemble a Fascist regime and be dominated by the army appeared likely today.

Home Minister Kishiburo Suzuki, slated for election as chief of the government (Seiyukai) party and the next premier continued his conversations with politicians and statesmen. Suzuki was expected to succeed Premier Inukai, assassinated by extremists.

Bootleg Milk Is Seized By Officials

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—Attempts to bootleg milk and cream from unlicensed sources in the middle west into this city in huge quantities were frustrated by the authorities, Health Commissioner Wynne said today.

Nearly 200 departmental inspectors and specially detailed police squads intercepted 25,000 pounds of contraband milk products recently and many longstar-guarded trucks bearing such supplies were barred, Wynne revealed.

POPE INVITES NATIONS JOIN ATHEISM FIGHT

Vatican Encyclical Names Week of Prayer Starting on June 3

VATICAN CITY, May 18.—(UP)—Nations of the world, Catholic and Protestant, were invited in an encyclical issued today by Pope Pius XI to join in a fight on atheism.

The pope blamed atheism, Communism, excessive corruption, and exaggerated nationalism for the troubles of mankind.

The pope set the Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, on June 3, for the beginning of a week of prayer in churches throughout the world for relief from the ills besetting mankind.

The encyclical was entitled "Caritate Christi Compulsi," meaning "urged by charity of Christ."

An official resume of the encyclical said:

"Subversive factions taking advantage of worldwide misery and more brazenly unfurl their banners of wickedness and hate of religion, and endeavor not without success to combine the war on God with the struggle for daily bread and make use of every means to realize their diabolical purpose."

"Thus, whereas formerly atheists were lost in the multitude, now instead in various countries they form a solid organized army that, with the help of secret societies, increases and grows bolder daily as though with their blasphemous they could stifle the marvelous concert in which creation sings the glory of its Creator."

"The Holy Father accordingly calls on all nations to put aside all base egoism and unite all their forces in a single front against the battalions of evil and the enemies of God, no less than of mankind."

Evidently appealing to Protestants, the encyclical said, "And although they who glory in the name of Christians should be first in their union of mind and strength, let those likewise loyally and heartily concur who still believe in God and adore Him, for the peril threatens all and aims at overthrowing the very foundations of social order and all authority."

The encyclical urged penitents to prayer and charity and continued: "Let the poor and all those who are at this time facing a hard trial, want of work and scarcity of food, let them offer in a like spirit of penitence recognition to the privations imposed."

SENTENCES ARE PASSED OUT TO OIL OFFICIALS

Three Ex-Richfield Executives Must Serve Two to 20 Years Each

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(UP)—Three former high officials of the Richfield Oil company, once the third largest concern of its kind on the coast, were sentenced to prison terms today for grand theft of the company's funds.

They were James T. Talbot, C. M. Fuller and R. W. McKee, respectively former chairman of the board, former president and former vice president.

Talbot, convicted of two counts of grand theft, was ordered to San Quentin for from two to 20 years.

He was found guilty by Superior Judge Yankwich of having stolen $100,000 of the company's funds. Talbot's attorneys sought to have the two sentences of one to ten years run concurrently, but Judge Yankwich denied such a motion and ruled they should run consecutively.

McKee, likewise was sentenced to two to 20 years in San Quentin.

He was found guilty originally on only one count of grand theft, but Judge Yankwich convicted him on three additional charges this morning. The jurist had these three latter counts under submission since Monday when he returned the first verdicts.

Judge Yankwich sentenced McKee to one to 10 years on each count, the first two counts to run concurrently and the last four to run consecutively with the second.

Attorneys representing the trio have made lengthy preparations to carry the case up on appeal. Appeal bonds were prepared in advance after Deputy District Attorney Jesse Frampton and Eugene U. Blalock said they would not oppose release of the convicted men on bond.

Although the three were convicted of grand thefts approximating $250,000, indictments accusing them of additional thefts amounting to nearly $300,000 were voted but have been placed off calendar pending a decision on appeal. They will be brought to trial on these additional counts if the higher courts overrule Judge Yankwich's decision, the district attorney's office said.

BASEBALL RESULTS

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, May 18.—(UP)—Babe Ruth today won an extra inning ball game for the New York Yankees with his sixth homer of the season. It came in the tenth inning of the game against Cleveland and the ball cleared the right field bleachers. Brown was pitching and no one was on base. The Yankees won, 3 to 2.

NEPOTISM BILL TO COME UP THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(UP)—House leaders are attempting to end the family payroll racket which has been the subject of hundreds of letters of protest received by senators and congressmen within the last month.

The house committee on accounts has been called to meet tomorrow to consider a resolution introduced by Chairman Lindsay Warren directing the clerk of the house to open the secret congressional payroll to public inspection. Not even congressmen may see these rolls now. Warren believes that by opening these lists to the public, abuses will automatically correct themselves.

Originator Of Death Chair 92 Years Old

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—Celebrating his 92nd birthday today, Dr. A. D. Rockwell, of Queens, originator of the electric chair in use at Sing Sing prison, reiterated his opposition to capital punishment.

The death penalty, he declared, is only a "vengeful futility," a confession of the law's failure in fighting crime.

SURVIVORS OF SEA DISASTER TAKEN ASHORE

Stories Told of How Fire Trapped Children and Women in Cabins

ADEN, Arabia, May 18.—(UP)—European, Indian, Filipino, Arab, and Chinese survivors of the liner Georges Phillipar, destroyed by fire in the Gulf of Aden, told today how flames trapped men and women in their cabins and forced others to jump into the sea killing approximately 100 victims.

The survivors were landed here by the British steamers Contractor and Mahsud. They were wearing night clothing. They had lost everything else in the fire. The Mahsud picked up 134 and the Contractor 129. There were 420 more known rescued, en route to Djibouti, Africa.

Some of the women rescued had borrowed men's clothing from the crews of the rescue ships. Many children were only a man's coat or some other garment they could borrow. Fortunately the sea was calm when they left the Georges Phillipar.

Many of the survivors suffered burns received when they fled over the blazing decks of the liner, returning from her maiden voyage to Indo-China, shining ship of 17,000 tons built especially for the comfort of passengers traveling in the tropics.

The survivors were housed at hotels here at air force headquarters, and in private residences. They were given food and clothing.

The survivors who were brought here did not include any Americans or English, according to first tabulations.

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(UP)—Garret Arbelbide, University of Southern California football and baseball star for the last three years, will become assistant football coach and head baseball coach at Modesto junior college, it became known today.

Expense To County Is $20,458.24

Cost Less Than That For 1930 Elections; 20,000 Republicans Vote

ACCORDING to figures obtained from County Clerk Joe Backe today, county residents paid primary and state referendum election cost the county slightly more than 56 cents for each ballot cast, or a total of $20,458.24.

There were 32,618 party ballots cast in the presidential primary and an additional 3626 ballots cast in the state election held on two referendum measures, making a total vote of 36,244 cast in the combined elections.

According to a compilation of figures obtained from the auditor's office, the presidential primary cost Orange county a total of $18,543.24 with an additional $1915 for expenses of the special state election making the total of $20,458.24.

Costs of this election were considerably less than elections in 1930. The August primary in 1930 cost $25,549.36, while the general election in the same year cost $27,138.54.

One saving effected by County Clerk Backe this year was in printing the great register of the county. He pointed out that in San Bernardino county with approximately the same registration the register was printed at a cost of 15 cents per name. The Orange county register was prepared on the clerk's addressograph by county employees at a cost which Backe estimated was 5 cents per name. The total registration was 54,320 voters and the saving at 10 cents per name totals $5432, he said.

Pay for election officers and polling places in the recent election cost $11,291 with an additional expenditure of $7255.24 for ballot paper, postage and printing. The special state election cost an additional $1915 for printing and other expenses.

According to the official canvass of votes there were 32,618 ballots cast in the presidential primary and 36,244 votes cast in the special state election. The difference in ballots was created by failure of many registered Republicans to vote in the presidential primary as there was no contest on that ticket.

There were 20,988 Republican ballots cast; 11,978 Democratic, and 240 Prohibition votes.

U. S. CHAMBERS URGE DECREASE IN TAX RATES

Prohibition Referendum By All Chambers of Nation Is Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—(UP)—A prohibition referendum by chambers of commerce all over the United States today was underway on order of the National council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Delegates, before they heard their president, Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, urged decreased federal taxation, unemployment relief and greater business freedom from federal competition and regulation, voted to take a definite stand on the wet question.

Member-chambers will ballot on six proposals. One is to urge congress for more drastic prohibition enforcement. The other five are suggestions for modification or repeal of the 18th amendment or the Volstead act.

The referendum resolution, introduced by the San Francisco chamber, passed unanimously.

The wet proposals on which member chambers will pass included:

1. Submission to the states of the question of repeal of the 18th amendment.
2. Submission of the question of altering the 18th amendment to legalize light wines and beer only.
3. Congressional repeal of the Volstead act.
4. Congressional modification of the Volstead act to legalize four per cent beer.
5. Modification of the Volstead act to legalize 11 per cent wine.

The resolution empowered directors of the national chamber to seek congressional adoption of any of the proposals carried in the referendum to member chambers.

The prohibition question, as presented, fitted into demands by Strawn for balancing the federal budget without increasing taxes. Strawn himself did not touch on the dry issue. The San Francisco chamber, however, declared modification would bring new millions of tax money into the federal treasury.

Reductions of at least $500,000,000 in federal expenses are necessary, Strawn said in his address to the 2000 captains of industry at the convention.

He sketched an anomaly that made the unemployment problem difficult. Raw materials and idle

INSIST CONGRESS CLEAN UP ON TAXES

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(UP)—Speaker Garner and Republican Leader Snell today joined in a statement notifying the senate that house leaders would insist on congress staying in continuous session until tax economy and appropriations legislation have been finally passed.

Garner and the minority leader made their announcement at a joint press conference.

Acting as spokesmen for both republicans and democrats they declared that "we do not think it possible or desirable to take a recess until the appropriations bills passed and sent to the White House before the end of the fiscal year."

"The only other alternative," Speaker Garner said, "is to pass continuing resolutions."

BIG AIRSHIP FLIES OVER BAKERSFIELD

SAN FRANCISCO May 18.—(UP)—Her motors roaring a greeting, the navy's big dirigible Akron today displayed herself to California inland towns.

She took off from her tender, the U.S.S. Patoka, after remaining moored at the ship's bay anchorage for a short time. The anchorage was accomplished without difficulty on her third attempt.

Her schedule called for her to be over Bakersfield, Calif., at 3 a.m. after which she was to return to her base at Sunnyvale.

Cruel Bosses End Stunt By Movie Man

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 18.—(UP)—Neil Hamilton, "bicycle marathoner" to Sacramento to invite Governor Rolph to the Olympic games in Los Angeles, came to an abrupt halt in Bakersfield, the governor's office announced today.

Hamilton, Los Angeles movie star, was ordered by his studio to return to Hollywood immediately and start work on a new picture.

Hamilton telegraphed the governor that it was "the greatest disappointment of my life not to be able to deliver the invitation, but added he hoped to meet Rolph within the next few weeks."

PERPETRATOR OF HOAX CHECKED

Officials Reveal Norfolk Boat Builder Attempted Once to End Life

ASSOCIATE IS QUIET

Dean Peacock Declines Come to New York and Discuss Curtis Angle

BULLETIN

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 18.—(UP)—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, late today was arrested on a misdemeanor charge in connection with his falsified story of Lindbergh kidnapping negotiations.

Directly thereafter Justice of the Peace George Webster held a special court at the Lindbergh estate for Curtis' arraignment. The misdemeanor complaint was filed by Prosecutor Anthony M. Hawk, jr., of Hunterdon county.

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 18.—(UP)—John H. Curtis, bankrupt Norfolk business man who wove a cruel fantasy of "contacts" with kidnappers in the hopes of personal gain, was under close watch today to see he did not escape the police or try to cheat their investigations in the Lindbergh kidnapping by suicide.

Curtis, according to state police officials, had not attempted suicide since coming into their hands nor had he had opportunity in view of their careful watch. Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, heading the police investigation, revealed in a statement that he had had confidential information Curtis tried suicide after his financial troubles last year. Schwartzkopf and his associates still were checking some loose ends of Curtis' confession.

Meantime, there were several developments in the search for the men who kidnapped and murdered Baby Lindbergh and then took ransom on claims that they could give up the child.

1. Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jaf-said" of the ransom negotiations went to Mt. Vernon, N. Y., not far from his Bronx home, to view rogues gallery pictures.

2. Norfolk authorities checked up on Curtis' movements since March 1, the kidnapping day, and were advised he was at home that day. They also sought to compare dirt on his car with dirt from the region of the New Jersey home of Col. Lindbergh—a movement of no particular importance since his car admittedly had been to the Lindbergh home.

3. Authorities still hoped Dean H. Dobson Peacock, an associate with Curtis in dealings with Col. Lindbergh, would come here to discuss the case. They hoped this the more since Curtis, after pleading mental disturbance over finances, blamed Peacock for not bailing him in his efforts to get money from newspapers for the "inside story" of the "negotiations."

4. A crop of rumors appeared, as usual, that upon investigation proved to be of no consequence. A story, for instance, that there was to be another big "confession" proved to be untrue.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, May 18. (To the Editor of The Register: ) Any time our Governor Prairie Bill Murray gets in an argument with the Federal government over what a State can do with its own products you can bet "Bill" will win. He knows more about State rights than any many in the country.

Went out yesterday with our popular Governor Rolph to accept the gift to the State of California of the biggest Arabian horse ranch in the world given by Mr. Kellogg of Battle Creek. The Governor knows good breakfast food and I know good horses. I don't want to detract from what may be mighty fine morning "fodder," but I am a ham and egg man myself.

Tax Reduction Theme Of Coast Meeting

URGE STUDY OF SCHOOL TAX SHIFT PLAN

County Assessor James Sleeper read a prepared statement before the meeting of the Orange County Coast association, held at San Clemente last night, in which he blamed the heavy tax burdens borne by the people of Orange county on the 32 special assessment districts that have been formed. His paper was entitled, "The Duty of the Assessor and Why Taxes Are High." Some of these special districts have as many as six or seven assessments against them, the assessor emphasized. The meeting was devoted almost entirely to tax problems and several lengthy reports were submitted, one of which urged careful study of the proposed plan to shift school taxes.

Excusing the apparent inequality of assessments, the assessor explained that property values are changing so rapidly the average taxpayer cannot understand the situation. Last year in Orange county there were 11,513 transfers, which necessitated a change in the records, he said. Where it could be shown that property has been unjustly assessed, however, he said he has been glad to correct the error.

A real tax is not a great burden, according to the speaker, but the special assessment is a real burden. There is no relief from it. Districts are formed in times of prosperity and when property values are high. When property values fall, the assessments still must be met; there is no way out. Sleeper declared he had issued warnings that property values were fictitious in prosperous times. The per capita tax in Orange county has jumped from about $16 in 1910 to about $82 in 1931, he pointed out.

Shows Charts
The assessor showed a number of charts containing figures relating to taxes in the county, and raised a defense against proposed cuts in salaries of county employees.

In 1910 in Orange county the total assessed valuation of the county was $27,000,000. Since

Today and Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMAN

The Robinson-Hoover Plan

NEW YORK—It really is of the able to wait for an improvement in business. For this waiting means uncertainty in the mind of the investor. He wants to be very sure that the money he invests will be safe as to capital and interest.

The fundamental argument for the Robinson-Hoover idea is that it is a plan to overcome this initial hesitation of the investor by giving him the assurance that the national credit is pledged. Let us take a concrete illustration. Suppose the port authority of New York undertook to build a vehicular tunnel under the East river.

Suppose it issued bonds for that tunnel, which were guaranteed as to interest and sinking fund by the tolls of the tunnel. Suppose then that the federal government announced that it would buy those bonds at par whenever offered. I am no bond expert but I should suppose that private investors would be glad to get such bonds and that actually the government would not have to buy many of them. Now if this happened, an actual increase of investment would have taken place.

Those who object to this idea on the ground that the money received by contractors and employees will simply be deflated out of existence by the banks take a very ominous view of the present situation. They imply that after the most drastic deflation of prices and credit of which there is any record a still more drastic deflation is impending. Now it may be granted that there is still considerable scaling down to inflated capital structure to be gone through with. But it is perfectly possible, or at least it has been perfectly possible in the past, for investment to be resumed in enterprises which have been deflated while others lag behind and are passing through receiverships and foreclosures.

There is no certain sign which everybody recognizes as the signal for resumption. It is legitimate, therefore to assume that some resumption is possible at this time and that it would occur if the nerves of bankers and investors had not been shaken by the harrowing experiences through which they have passed. It may be that the Robinson-Hoover scheme will not work great results. No one can guarantee it. But the risks of the attempt are small. The country will not be worse off, come what may, for having made some investment in useful and revenue-producing projects. On the other hand, the risks of not doing anything—of sitting and letting the vicious spiral of deflation spin—are very great.

There is the risk that "debt-paying" will become impossible. There is also the risk—no, I should say the certainty—that the country will not endure the consequences of continuing deflation, and that congress will resort to really inflationary devices to cure it. The Robinson-Hoover plan is, therefore, a truly statesman-like effort to deal by sound principle with a problem which will otherwise surely provoke the adoption of entirely unsound principles. If the people are to bear what they are suffering, they must be convinced that those who claim to be sound are also willing to take all the positive measures which informed opinion can justify. The Robinson-Hoover plan can be justified by informed opinion; though no one is finally expert in these matters it can be said confidently, I think, that there is sufficient weight of expert opinion behind the scheme to warrant the experiment.

If it succeeds in some measure everybody will rejoice; if it fails it will be because the forces at work are greater than we are able to cope with, and they will run their course in spite of us. But at least we shall not have to reproach ourselves with having been unwilling to do what we could with such light as we have. Copyright, 1932, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.

Before seeking an answer we must first of all consider the case of those who object to any positive program of this character. The Herald-Tribune objects. Passing over the fact that the Herald-Tribune has confused the Robinson-Hoover plan with the La Follette-Wagner-Smith plan, the crux of the objection is that the new credit applied to enterprises will not in a period of "debt-paying," that is, of deflation, "set in motion a series of stimuli which spread gradually throughout the country. For after one or two changes of hands—it returns to the banks, where it merely ceases to be, like any other credit that is not needed." This argument assumes that the money received by employees and firms engaged in the work would be used by them, or by those from whom they in turn made purchases, to repay loans at the banks, and new loans. This, I take it, is what is meant by saying that the new credit would quickly cease to be.

The argument assumes that the time has not yet come for a resumption of investment, that debt-paying, or in other words, deflation, has not gone far enough. Those who argue this way can point to the fact that although the federal reserve banks have been creating credit on a large scale the member banks continue to call loans and to deflate. The banks do not want to invest, and therefore it is argued that a positive program of credit creation and public investment must fail.

Now it would be admitted, I suppose, that the essence of recovery would be a resumption of investment. If tomorrow morning the bankers announced that they had sold successfully a bond issue, let us say, to electrify the Pennsylvania railroad, and the next day that they had sold successfully a bond issue to construct a large power plant, the objectors to the Robinson-Hoover idea would unquestionably hail the news as most encouraging.

Now what is it that stands in the way of such undertakings? Is it a belief that the country will never again need capital improvements? Hardly. Is it a belief that capital improvements cannot yet be made profitably? Yes. Why can't they be made profitably? Some would say because the costs of materials and labor are still too high; others that the volume of business is not great enough to make any enterprise profitable. The objection as to costs is a matter for negotiation with contractors and with labor; the objection as to volume is a question of being

URGE TAX CUT: BUT ASK EXTRA APPROPRIATION

The Orange County Coast association, at its meeting held last night at San Clemente, in which the theme of tax reduction was stressed, went on record requesting the board of supervisors to appropriate an additional $1500 to the All-Year club of Southern California in order that a page of Orange county scenes and data may be included in the booklet which is to be distributed widely throughout the country in connection with the Olympic games.

A request by S. A. Meyer of Newport Beach that the supervisors be asked to share in some form to cost of providing life-guards for the beaches, now borne by the cities, was referred to a sub-committee of the taxation committee of which Mayor Hughes of Seal Beach is chairman.

The proposed advertising trip by representatives of coast communities to inland cities was outlined by Hallman Cooley of Three Arch Bay. Dr. C. D. Huston of Costa Mesa was made chairman of the committee at Mr. Cooley's request. The trip will be made in one day.

Water Problem
Hugh T. O'Connor, chairman of the water committee, reported that the question of a supply of water for Three Arches, Coast Royal and Three Arch Bay is up to those communities and its immediate neighbor, Laguna Beach. He urged that Laguna Beach help out the other towns. Ross Shafer, of Tustin, said there would "be no trouble with the interior" if an agreement could be reached. O'Connor said a water district is being formed in the territory seeking.

James Irvine declared that when corporations are taxed they must collect it out of bills for utility service or railroad fares. He said the great eastern banks and life insurance companies have invested heavily in utilities in Southern California and if the tax burden is made too great, there may come a time when they cannot pay the policies.

Tom Talbert of Huntington Beach declared that the root of the tax trouble was class taxation. The June meeting will be held in Seal Beach and the July meeting at Three Arch Bay.

IMPROVEMENTS SCHEDULED AT SCOUTS' CAMP

Improvement and expansion of the Boy Scout camp at Camp Rock in the San Bernardino mountains to accommodate 125 boys during camping seasons has been authorized by the camp committee. It was announced today by Harrison E. White, Scout executive. Cabins will be enlarged and changed and the swimming pool will be improved. A number of other improvements have been scheduled. The annual camp folder, sent to all parents of Boy Scouts in the county, has been sent out. Pictures and details of camp life, including the names and qualifications of the camp staff are included.

This year the camp has been thrown open to all boys of the county who desire to spend a few weeks or longer in out-door activities. As a result of the announcement, the local Scout officer has received an unusually large number of applications for camp. Executive White said today.

A series of experiments has been started in Switzerland that will last 250 years. The experiments will determine movement of glaciers.

TRAVELING MAN ENDORSES ALL-BRAN

Says It Brought Relief From Constipation

"I want to take this unsolicited means to tell you what ALL-BRAN has done for me.

"I am on the road all the time and this has a tendency to constipate me, or any one who travels all the time. I used to suffer a great deal from constipation, until some one told me about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating this cereal, I have been cured of constipation. I heartily endorse it to anyone suffering as I did."—Mr. B. F. Pollard, Marion, N. C.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN provides both. At the same time, it supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

How much better than risking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation—serious cases, with every meal. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CONGRESS TRYING TO FIND OUT WHY FLIERS NEED POLO PONIES; MAY CUT LUXURIES

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, May 18.—They have horses in the aviation branch of the army now, but they probably won't after the economy wave has swept over them.

There are less than a hundred of them, used to exercise army aviators. It was brought out in hearings on the war department appropriation bill. Army officers should play polo, most generals agree, in order to keep in the best possible trim. But General Benny Foulois, head of the army air corps, admits that the value of the air corps horses is hardly commensurate to take care of them—about one man per horse.

The air corps has bands, too, which furnish entertainment for the garrisons. Foulois says the bands can be dispensed with. Cavalry bandmen toot on horseback, but sending bands up in planes isn't practical.

"I have never been able to figure how we could use bands to drill with airplanes," Foulois admits.

$25,000 for Hostesses
Hostesses, which cost the army about $25,000 a year, may also be eliminated. There are 13 of them. Major General C. H. Bridges says they will rank high on the propriety list if it is necessary to cut expenses for the welfare of enlisted men.

They are more valuable when citizen soldiers are being trained than for the regular troops, according to Bridges. But they add "a general air of refinement to the posts" and see that only people of "proper character" come to social gatherings.

Desertions Drop
The number of army deserters has been cut more than half since the number of civilian jobs began to be sharply curtailed. But hard times have also caused many deserters to try to re-enlist, whereupon they are usually arrested and court-martialed for previous desertion.

The war department last year spent $125,000 on the apprehension of deserters. There were 2237 deserters apprehended and 2011 who voluntarily returned. Total desertions dropped from 10,471 in 1923 to 5080 in 1931. It seems likely that improvement in army rationing also had something to do with the decrease.

The army still pays $50 to anyone who brings in a deserter and rewarded 2237 persons for such jobs last year.

Horseshoe, $106,000
An army horse has to be shod about eight times a year and last year the total cost of shoeing military horses and mules was $106,000.

The army breeds about 40 per cent of its own horses and will spend about $120,000 next year on that activity. The law requires it to breed riding horses and it obtains horses of the highest type for the purpose.

The Army's Sex Appeal
Congressman Rose Collins of Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee which brought in the war department bill, has an ill-disguised contempt for polo playing by army officers. He suspects horses are retained and used largely for the edification of the "womenfolks" at the posts.

Sniffing at the continued use of hostesses, he says the military training schools "have a way of putting uniforms on the best-looking girls and making honorary colonels out of them."

"I know it is a part of the plan to play up sex appeal in order to get the boys there and encourage them to do the work you want them to do," he told army officers. "You are putting women into the army every time you get a chance. I notice that that is the rule and not the exception."

Horses Like It?

Major General G. U. Henry of the cavalry school challenged him as to polo. "Any good, hardy outdoor game is a fine thing for young officers when they get to the age where they can't play football," he declared. "Polo is an excellent thing for that purpose. Also, riding to hounds, steeplechasing or anything in that class is fine training for these men." General Henry said he thought the horses loved the game, too.

HONOR MOTHERS AT W.C.T.U. SESSION

BUENA PARK, May 18.—Mother's day was observed at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the Congregational church yesterday. Each member was asked to bring as her guest a mother. A pot-luck luncheon was served at noon.

Mrs. E. A. Kinney, first vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Brown, who is in Missouri. Mrs. F. B. Stultz gave the devotionals and the Rev. W. L. Newman gave the prayer.

The month of May being devoted to health programs by the W. C. T. U., extracts from Mrs. C. F. U. books were read by Mrs. F. H. Bezona, Mrs. W. H. Haggarty, Mrs. J. B. Robison and Mrs. G. H. Hatch. Mrs. Cora Hale, president of the county organization, gave a summary of the W. C. T. U. work and announced a meeting to be held at Huntington Beach on June 3. A mother song was sung by Mrs. Fred Law and a reading was given by Mrs. Haggarty. Mrs. E. Hasson, the oldest mother present and a pioneer of Buena Park, spoke briefly.

SHIPMENTS OF AVOCADOS UP 45 PER CENT

So far this season 39 straight carloads of Calavos have been sent East by refrigerated freight as against 27 at the same date last year, representing an increase of nearly 45 per cent, it was revealed today in a news letter from the Calavo Growers of California. The shipments were pre-cooled at the company plant in Los Angeles.

For this season, March was the peak month in regard to production percentage the report shows. However, the season of maturity for all varieties and districts this season was a month or more early, it was stated.

The number of packed boxes has increased greatly over the past three years, according to the following figures, with the first figure indicating the number of boxes packed in the 1929-30 season, the second the 1930-31 season and the third the 1931-32 season: October, 4410, 8261, 18,998; November, 2502, 14,797, 21,413; December, 3486, 24,200, 37,365; January, 4015, 24,113, 36,467; February, 3998, 24,290, 34,115; March, 4547, 34,249, 39,700; April 4413, 28,827, 27,000.

The Farmer's Outlook

Written for The United Press by the University of California

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 17.—(UP)—Why is it, persons not in touch with agriculture ask, that farmers and farming receive so much aid?

Why is it necessary, they want to know, to give Mr. and Mrs. Farmer so much help of all sorts? What is it, they say, that makes agriculture different from all other industries and business, and requires so much state and national assistance, technical, financial, legislative, educational?

In the answers to these questions lies a story. A story of the peculiar nature of farming, its intrinsic value to society as a whole, its indispensable need to human wants, its contributions to the economic structure.

First of all, more than any other one thing, farming contributes three essentials to human wants and needs.

These basic essentials are food, clothing and shelter. The production of these three human requirements places agriculture in a class of its own.

Food is indispensable. So are clothing and shelter. Agriculture produces these three economic essentials in the form of raw economic goods. Upon this production are pyramided all other industries, such as manufacturing, transportation, commerce, merchandising, finance, and even government itself. Without agriculture no nation could survive. Governments have failed, and nations have gone under, when their agriculture failed. History records this fact.

All nations started out as agricultural people. From an agricultural character, they later developed into industrial peoples. But all nations, and all governments, have stressed the development of agriculture, and all have attempted to maintain farming as the base of the economic pyramid.

Recognizing the basic importance of agriculture early in the formation of its government, the United States has led the world in emphasizing the value of agricultural education. The establishment of the United States department of agriculture is traced back to the time of George Washington.

In Lincoln's time came the establishment of land-grant colleges, one for each state in the union. To make agriculture effective, state agricultural colleges were reinforced by organizations of agricultural experiment stations.

Supplementing the educational and research of the federal department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges, was the work of state departments of agriculture, one in every state.

In California, where agriculture is more diversified and more highly specialized than in any other state, having more than 180 different commercial farm products, unusually effective arrangements exist between all state institutions charged by law to assist agriculture.

No comparable situation exists elsewhere. In fact, California's organization is a model for the rest of the United States.

Three great state institutions are working to aid the farmer—the college of agriculture and its agricultural experiment station, the state department of agriculture, and the state bureau of commerce. The latter, a recent institution, is engaged in finding new outlets for California fruits and vegetables.

Such an arrangement, farm leaders declare, should not only be maintained but also strengthened. California agriculture needs intelligent aid, the newest scientific methods and the most coordinated assistance. Every dollar lost through inefficiency, waste and duplication, hurts agriculture that much.

California farmers and their families are entitled to the best. California agriculture represents the most intelligent farming in the United States. When it prospers, the whole state prospers. It is entitled to, and should receive, the finest assistance within the power of the state to obtain.

Final Battle Over Farm Relief

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The politicians of congress will not knock off for their big summer of national conventions and campaigning without a final battle over farm relief and, probably, over unemployment relief as well.

There will be excellent campaign material in it for some members, especially those from the farm states, but others may become pretty hot and bothered before they decide how to vote.

How far Senators Costigan of Colorado and LaFollette of Wisconsin will get in their second attempt of the session to obtain direct federal relief for the unemployed is uncertain at the moment. Costigan now proposes a $500,000,000 bond issue or that purpose.

New Evidence of Need
New evidence of the need in many cities for federal help has been brought to Washington and proponents of the Costigan bill are hopeful that additional senators, with some of them facing nomination or election fights and others convinced whereas they were not before, can be persuaded to support direct relief in sufficient numbers to pass the measure.

The LaFollette-Costigan bill providing a $375,000,000 appropriation was defeated in February, 48 to 35.

The overwhelming sentiment for federal economy, however, may offset the gains of the relief forces which would otherwise be expected. The new proposal for a bond issue is designed partly to meet that objection.

Three Courses Open
Farmers, however, are sure to have their innings before the session ends. The three large farm organizations—American Farm Bureau, National Grange and Farmers' Union—have presented a triple-barreled program which, in a possibly modified form, seems likely to pass both houses of congress some time after tax legislation is finished.

The farm bill introduced by Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture committee would empower the Federal Farm board, at its discretion, to employ the equalization fee—part of the Farm bureau, the export debenture plan—favorite of the Grange, or a prohibition of selling farm products below production costs—as proposed by the Farmers' union. President Hoover has in the past emphatically disapproved both the equalization fee and the debenture scheme and may be expected to veto them.

Would "Separate" Crops
Each of the three plans is based on the idea of separating crops into two parts, first that for domestic sale and consumption behind the tariff wall which is now ineffective on crops which have export surpluses, and, second, that for sale abroad. The bill makes it entirely optional with the Farm board whether to use any one or more of the plans.

An attempt will also be made to segregate $100,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for financing the export of the present Farm board holdings in wheat and cotton, so that if the main body of legislation is enacted.

ad it will not start under such a serious handicap as would be presented by those holdings. Under the equalization fee, surpluses of farm products would be bought up by the board until an "American price" equal to the world price plus the tariff (the tariff is 42 cents on wheat, for example) was established. Farmers would be paid that "American price," minus an equalization fee computed and charged by the board to pay expenses of handling the surplus and selling it abroad.

The Debenture Plan
If the debenture plan were employed, farmers or co-operatives exporting commodities would receive treasury certificates or debentures amounting to half the bushels of wheat, that is, would receive debentures worth $210. The assumption is that this plan would also keep throwing wheat onto the export market until the domestic price went up. The board would have to reduce the debenture rate if production were over stimulated.

Under the third provision the board would ascertain production cost and establish a license system to insure no sales below that. Upon its proclamation embargoes would be in effect against importation of products likely to thwart the general scheme.

"No such headway has ever been made by those interested in farm relief as has been made this year," says McNary, referring to the concerted action of the farm organizations.

Streets to Carry Names of Pioneers

The Three Arches Home Makers Improvement association is planning to name various streets in the subdivision south of Laguna Beach after pioneers of Orange county, it was learned today. To consider the matter, a barbecue dinner is to be held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Swartzwald.

Terry E. Stephenson, Santa Ana postmaster and authority on county history, will tell the group of the historical events which have taken place near the subdivision and of the local pioneers.

Reunions and Picnics

Increased BUYING POWER of the dollar justifies the return to normal spending

Thoughtful people all over California are returning to normal buying habits—and they are getting some of the greatest values of their lives. Building materials, automobiles, clothing and high grade merchandise of every kind are being sold at temptingly low prices. Now is the time to take full advantage of the increased purchasing power of the dollar, stimulate every line of business, and return the unemployed to their jobs... Even reduced incomes are balanced by corresponding reductions in the prices of nearly all commodities. There is no excuse for not satisfying one's normal needs... Prosperity depends largely upon both banked and expended money. Until idle money circulates freely, unemployment will continue to be with us. The return of good times is strictly up to each one of us. Think it over.

250 Expected At Convention Of Walther Leagues

3-ACT COMEDY PRESENTED ON SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, May 18.—Plans are well under way for welcoming the 250 delegates who are expected to attend the district convention of Orange Walther leagues of Southern California at the St. John's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon and evening. Arnold Intor, president of the local league, will preside and arrangements for the program and services have been in the hands of the assistant pastor of the church, the Rev. Armand Mueller.

The program will be open at 2:30 o'clock with an inspirational service in charge of the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Bode. At 3:30 o'clock a business meeting will be held and each league represented will have a part in a program which will follow. A light supper will be served in the Walker Memorial hall.

In the evening the visitors will be entertained with a three-act comedy to be directed by William Batterman, principal of St. John's parochial school. The play is called "Chintz College." Plans will be made for the participation of the Junior Walther leagues of the district in the International Walther league convention in Los Angeles in July.

LUTHERAN SCHOOL TEACHERS CONFER

OLIVE, May 18.—School teachers of the Missouri synod Lutheran church in Southern California gathered at St. Paul's Lutheran school in Olive for their regular spring conference Monday. The morning was given over to a demonstration lesson in Bible history, presented by Walter Mueller, of St. Paul's church in Olive, and a miscellany of problems which confronted the teacher.

The afternoon session was used for discussion of the following subjects: Handwriting, K. Kuehnert; methods in geography, E. T. Pingel; spelling, H. Meyerhoff; and miscellaneous problems which confronted the teacher.

William Batterman and E. T. Pingel, both of Orange, served as chairman and secretary, respectively. The fall conference will be held in the school of the First Lutheran church in Long Beach.

The members present were: Misses A. Klein, of Los Angeles; E. G. Gornath, of Orange, and Helen Behrads, of Santa Monica. H. Meyerhoff, of Long Beach; E. Wunderlich, William Batterman, J. J. Troester, E. T. Pingel, and Paul Hedder, all of Orange; K. Kuehnert, S. Wiegmann, E. Dankworth and R. J. Stenske, of Los Angeles; H. A. Schock, San Bernardino; A. W. Schmid and Walter Mueller, of Olive.

Picnic Held By Minnesota Group At Irvine Park

EL MODENA, May 18.—A group of former Minnesota neighbors and friends enjoyed a picnic at Irvine park recently. In the afternoon the group assembled in the John Baxter home on East Chapman avenue.

Present to enjoy the day were Mrs. and Mr. W. R. Gilbert and daughter, Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hurd, Everett Elias, of Los Angeles; Beale Hurd, Miss Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leeman and daughter, Marjorie Kenneth Lee, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. ### Grows Trees In Windows Orange Cafe

ORANGE, May 18.—George Andrich, of North Glassell street, is growing avocadoes in the windows of his lunch room, the seeds resting on the surfaces of glass jars. One of the trees is nine months old and is nearly three feet tall, having a most healthy appearance. The seeds are kept floating by the use of toothpicks which are inserted in them and rest on the edges of the jars. Andrich states that one of the seeds had already sprouted and had tiny leaves when he found it in a very ripe avocado.

BRIDGE PARTY IS ENJOYED BY CLUB SECTION

ORANGE, May 18.—A card party was the feature of the meeting of the third economics section of the Woman's club yesterday afternoon when the group met in the clubhouse. First prize in bridge went to Mrs. LeRoy Valentine and second to Mrs. Hazel Summers. Guests were Mrs. David G. Wettlin and Mrs. Earl Crawford, club curators.

Hostesses were Mrs. Johnnie Harms, Mrs. Louis Prostefer, Mrs. William Batt and Mrs. Louis Fitchsen. Fruit salad, wafers and coffee were served at the card tables and the lobby was decorated with bouquets of varied early summer flowers. Two new members were voted into the section, Mrs. Samuel O. Hart and Mrs. Marah Adams. Mrs. H. O. Russell, president, presided.

Plans were made for the annual picnic to be held at the Azusa Fishing club June 15. Those present were Mesdames Hazel Summers, George Baler, James Ragan, C. E. Short, H. O. Russell, Johnnie Harms, William Batt, Louis Fitchsen, George Seba, H. C. Hueck, V. A. Wood, Paul G. Muench, Clyde Slater, C. E. Short, Manford Reed, E. D. Pratt, N. U. ### ANNUAL 'O' DAY CELEBRATED BY SCHOOL GROUP

ORANGE, May 18.—Annual "O" day at the Orange Union High school yesterday resulted in a clean slate for the big "O" on the football field of Villa Park and the huge letter, which is visible for many miles, today is cleared to the sun-baked soil of the year's accumulation of weeds and debris.

One of the most bizarre costumes worn at the school was that originated and worn by Walter Meyer, one of the group of seniors who took part in the day's program. Meyer appeared in a voluminous night shirt, the legs of long underwear peeping below it and with his waist girded with a belt of weiners. Whiskers, fashioned from sauerkraut were unique hirsute adornments and across his back the young man carried a sign, "Al Schmidt For Beer." Meyer carried an empty beer stein.

INSTALLATION OF P. T. A. OFFICERS SET FOR JUNE 1

ORANGE, May 18.—New officers of the eight Parent-Teacher associations and the P. T. A. council are to be installed at a luncheon meeting to be held June 1 at the Woman's clubhouse. It was stated this morning. The organizations include six from the city of Orange, one from Villa Park, one from El Modena and one from Olive.

The installing officer will be Mrs. Mary R. Robertson, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Earl Morris, also of Santa Ana, has been asked to give a talk. There are to be table talks and the reports of the recent state convention at Riverside will be an important part of the program.

Mrs. Glen Reck will succeed Mrs. Carl Sutton as head of the city council. Mrs. Sutton will preside at the meeting. She has been president of the council for the past two years. Lunch will be served at 12:30 o'clock.

Reform Leader Gives Address In Church Thursday

ORANGE, May 18.—One of the most interesting meetings of the year is scheduled for women of the Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church tomorrow at 2 p. m., when Mrs. Lula Loveland Shepherd will be the guest speaker. Mrs. R. W. Jones is in charge of the program.

Mrs. Shepherd will speak on Mormonism. Other church groups of the city as well as many members of societies of the county are planning to attend. The speaker is associated with the National Reform association.

Mrs. Ethel Niquette, president of the group, is to be in charge of the meeting and Mrs. W. E. Anderson heads the hostess committee.

Article Lauds Orange Officers

ORANGE, May 18.—The California Police Journal for the present month has an article relating to the police department of this city. In the article the beauty of the city is stressed and it is related that the city has the distinction of maintaining the smallest force per capita of any city in Orange county and has a very low crime record under the supervision of Chief of Police B. F. Richards.

The writer describes the chief's policy of humanizing the police department and bringing it in closer touch with the people and his friendly policy with the children of the town and with the men who are at the bottom but who are willing and ready to make another start on the ladder towards the top.

Woodward and R. L. Hill, of Los Angeles.

Members of the Benedictine class of the First Methodist church are to hold an all-day meeting tomorrow at the Epworth hall. Sewing and quilting will be done during the day.

The R. P. C. class of the First Methodist church will hold a meeting tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Trafford Watson in Santa Ana. A covered dish luncheon will be held at noon.

NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR CHURCH GUILD

ORANGE, May 18.—When members of the Bertha Epley guild met last night in the parlors of the First Christian church, the report of the nominating committee was unanimously accepted and officers for the coming year were elected. Heading the organization for the coming year will be Mrs. Dorothy Ferrin as president, Mrs. Goldie Robinson, vice president, and Mrs. Lola Ditchey, secretary.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE!

VERDI, Nev. (UP)—Forty years ago, Pat Mitchell, rancher, lost a watch on his farm. This week, while cleaning a ditch, he found it again. No—it will never run again!

AMELIA-MARIE HATS, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. SPECIAL.
VALUES $6.50 to $10 — Amelia-Marie would like their patrons to know that they're offering this special of $3.95 on hats just now to reduce their stock to accommodate mid season merchandise. Materials and workmanship of Amelia-Marie hats are known throughout the county. This is a QUALITY bargain.

Wear LA GRACE and KNOW you're appropriately and smartly dressed. GREEN GABLES is sure to catch your fancy with dressy volles, befrilled rayons, sheer prints, and no end of dainty near silks and silks. Never neglecting, of course, the more formal silks, and those simple, tailored travel and street dresses so definitely the right thing this summer.

UT JUICE CO., Tustin. QUEEN ISABELLA juices are a great convenience to have in the pantry for all kinds of weather. For instance, nothing can be more appetizing or hold more nutriment than the Queen Isabella golden-hued tomato juice in a hot bouillon these coolish, murky days; on the other hand, if the sun comes out and warms things up, you can still have your tomato juice in a cold cocktail, seasoned a bit with salt, pepper and lemon. And the Queen Isabella pure California-made grape juice just naturally fits all temperatures, for it's a delicious refreshment any hour of the day; and don't forget it has the iron content we all need at all times.

3-ACT COMEDY PRESENTED ON SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, May 18.—Plans are well under way for welcoming the 250 delegates who are expected to attend the district convention of Junior Walther leagues of Southern California at the St. John's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon and evening. Arnold Intorf, president of the local league, will preside and arrangements for the program and services have been in the hands of the assistant pastor of the church, the Rev. Armand Mueller.

The program will be open at 2:30 o'clock with an inspirational service in charge of the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Bode. At 3:30 o'clock a business meeting will be held and each league represented will have a part in a program which will follow. A light supper will be served in the Walker Memorial hall.

In the evening the visitors will be entertained with a three-act comedy to be presented by William Batterman, principal of St. John's parochial school. The play is called "Christ's College." Plans will be made for the participation of the Junior Walther leagues of the district in the International Walther league convention in Los Angeles in July.

LUTHERAN SCHOOL TEACHERS CONFER

OLIVE, May 18.—School teachers of the Missouri synod Lutheran church in Southern California gathered at St. Paul's Lutheran school in Olive for their regular spring conference Monday. The morning was given over to a demonstration lesson in Bible history, presented by Walter Mueller, of St. Paul's church in Olive, and the primary grade children. A. W. Schmidt, also of St. Paul's school, demonstrated the method of solving problems with the seventh grade pupils.

The afternoon session was used for discussion of the following subjects: Handwriting, K. Kuehnert; methods in geography, E. T. Pingel; spelling, H. Meyerhoff; and miscellaneous problems which concerned the teachers.

William Batterman and E. T. Pingel, both of Orange, served as chairman and secretary, respectively. The fall conference will be held in the school of the First Lutheran church in Long Beach.

The members present were the Misses A. Klein, of Los Angeles; E. Gorath, of Orange; and Helen Behrman, of Santa Monica. H. Meyerhoff, of Long Beach; W. Dunderloh, William Batterman, J. J. Troester, E. T. Pingel, and Paul Hedder, all of Orange; K. Kuehnert, S. Wiegmann, E. Dankworth and R. J. Schenke, of Los Angeles; H. A. Schenke, of Santa Bernardino; A. W. Schmidt and Walter Mueller, of Olive.

Picnic Held By Minnesota Group At Irvine Park

EL MODENA, May 18.—A group of former Minnesota neighbors and friends enjoyed a picnic at Irvine park recently. In the afternoon the group assembled in the John Baxter home on East Chapman avenue.

Present to enjoy the day were Mrs. and Mr. W. R. Gilbert and daughter, Joyce, and Mrs. and Mr. C. E. Hurd, Everett Elias, of Los Angeles; Beale Hurd, Miss Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leeman and daughter, Marjorie Kenneth Lee, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morgan and son, Thomas; Mrs. Lois Clayton and son Billy Francis, of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Back and daughter, Dorothy; and Virgil; Mrs. Florence Allen and son, Charles; Miss Edna Baker, of Los Angeles; Lawrence Anthony, of Beverly Hills, and Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter and daughter, Katherine.

Grows Trees In Windows Orange Cafe

ORANGE, May 18.—George Andrich, of North Glassell street, is growing avocados in the windows of his lunch room, the seeds resting on the surfaces of glass jars. One of the trees is nine months old and is nearly three feet tall, having a most healthy appearance. The seeds are kept floating by the use of toothpicks which are inserted in them and rest on the edges of the jars. Andrich states that one of the seeds had already sprouted and had tiny leaves when he found it in a very ripe avocado.

BRIDGE PARTY IS ENJOYED BY CLUB SECTION

ORANGE, May 18.—A card party was the feature of the meeting of the third economics section of the Woman's club yesterday afternoon when the group met in the clubhouse. First prize in bridge went to Mrs. LeRoy Valentine and second to Mrs. Hazel Summers. Guests were Mrs. David G. Wettlin and Mrs. Earl Crawford, club curator.

Hostesses were Mrs. Johnnie Harms, Mrs. Louis Prostefer, Mrs. William Batt and Mrs. Louis Fitchsen. Fruit salad, waters and coffee were served at the card tables and the lobby was decorated with bouquets of varied early summer flowers. Two new members were voted into the section, Mrs. Samuel O. Hart and Mrs. Marah Adams. Mrs. H. O. Russell, president, presided.

Plans were made for the annual picnic to be held at the Azusa Fishing club June 15. Those present were Mesdames Hazel Summers, George Baler, James Ragan, C. E. Short, H. O. Russell, Johnnie Harms, William Batt, Louis Fitchsen, George Seba, H. C. Hueck, V. A. Wood, Paul G. Munich, Clyde Slater, C. E. Short, Manfred Reed, E. D. Pratt, N. U. ### ANNUAL 'O' DAY CELEBRATED BY SCHOOL GROUP

ORANGE, May 18.—Annual "O" day at the Orange Union High school yesterday resulted in a clean slate for the big "O" on the foot-hills of Villa Park and the huge letter, which is visible for many miles, today is cleared to the sun-baked soil of the year's accumulation of weeds and debris.

One of the most bizarre costumes worn at the school was that originated and worn by Walter Meyer, one of the group of seniors who took part in the day's program. Meyer appeared in a voluminous night shirt, the legs of long underwear peeping below it and with his waist girded with a belt of whisks, fashioned from sauerkraut were unique hirsute adornments and across his back the young man carried a sign, "Al Schmidt For Beer." Meyer carried an empty beer stein.

The prize winner for boys was Thomas Flippin, who was dressed as Little Bo-Peep, with lacy frock, broad-brimmed hat, a long shepherd's crook and a woolly Alpacina. The girls' winner was Carolina Vejar, who wore a black gown of ancient vintage with puff sleeves and a bustle and a white hat. The best couple was judged to be Matilda Blankmeyer and Elizabeth Crawford who arrived at school as a man and wife who had apparently had just crossed the plains in a covered wagon. A close second to this couple was Jess Stanfield and Lucien Knight, who came dashing to the front of the main building with a motorcycle and sidecar. Adam and Eve were portrayed by Pauline Flint and Mildred Collins, who wore nothing suits covered with fig leaves.

The entire faculty acted as the judges and after the judging was concluded the seniors were taken to the hills in the school busses. The "O" which was cleared is more than 100 yards long and 50 yards wide, more than the width of a city street. Accompanying the students were M. M. Fleishback, C. C. Trippland, Miss Helen Culp and H. E. Chambers.

Lunch was served at Irvine park with Mr. Fishback and Miss Ethel V. Walker as the chefs. In the afternoon the students were taken to the Palisades at Balboa with A. Haven Smith, principal of the school; J. H. Livernash, Miss Grace Robertson and Mrs. Nelle Klein as the faculty members who accompanied them.

Costumes which received favorable comment included that of Harold Leichtfusse, who impersonated Mahatma Gandhi, his make-up being particularly good.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, May 18.—James Walworth spent Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. Maud Freely, in Yorba Linda.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dollard and children attended a family reunion held in Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meier have returned from a two days outing at Catalina Island.

Miss Lydia Evans is spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Lathram, of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hodson made a business trip to Pomona recently. They were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall.

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Burchell were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frazer and daughter, Dorothy, of Santa Ana.

L. W. Evans and son, Noral, are spending a few days at their cabin at Strawberry Flats.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bird, of Tustin, spent the week end at Ventura with Mrs. Hodson's and Mr. Bird's brother, Lester Bird, and family.

Mrs. W. A. Settle spent Monday with her daughter, Mrs. Carl Warner, in Santa Ana.

Mrs. Marion Flippin, who has been ill for the past few days, is improved.

Miss Mildred Moore attended a Sunday school picnic held at Three Arches.

An enjoyable evening was spent by the Young People's Christian Endeavor societies of the El Modena Friends church in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Paddock, of Panorama Heights. Rex B. Barr, of Long Beach, gave a talk to the young people.

At the close of the evening refreshments of fruit ice and cake were served. The following were present: Misses Elizabeth Skiles, Ruby Gray, Lorraine Obarr, Leona Lutz, Frances Barnett, Wilma Stanfield, Mrs. Emma Paxton, Rex B. Barr, of Long Beach; Billie Blakie and David Dozier, of Orange; Roy Harms, of Santa Ana; Donald Dozier, of Whittier; Legan Garner, Hollis Gray, Eldon Paddock, Glenn Moody, Vernon Obarr and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Paddock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eyer entertained the biology class of the Orange Union High school in their home recently. Games and contests occupied the hours of the evening. Prizes were awarded to Elmo Lachas, Olga Kramer and Donald Glendale. Refreshments of cake and cocoa were served at the close of the evening.

INSTALLATION OF P. T. A. OFFICERS SET FOR JUNE 1

ORANGE, May 18.—New officers of the eight Parent-Teacher associations and the P. T. A. council are to be installed at a luncheon meeting to be held June 1 at the Woman's clubhouse. It was stated this morning. The organizations include six from the city of Orange, one from Villa Park, one from El Modena and one from Olive.

The installing officer will be Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Earl Morris, also of Santa Ana, has been asked to

Reform Leader Gives Address In Church Thursday

ORANGE, May 18.—One of the most interesting meetings of the year is scheduled for women of the Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church tomorrow at 2 p. m., when Mrs. Lula Loveland Shepherd will be the guest speaker. Mrs. R. W. Jones is in charge of the program.

Mrs. Shepherd will speak on Mormonism. Other church groups of the city as well as many members of societies of the county are planning to attend. The speaker is associated with the National Reform association.

Mrs. Ethel Niquette, president of the group, is to be in charge of the meeting and Mrs. W. E. Anderson heads the hosts committee.

Article Lauds Orange Officers

ORANGE, May 18.—The California Police Journal for the present month has an article relating to the police department of this city. In the article the beauty of the city is stressed and it is related that the city has the distinction of maintaining the smallest force per capita of any city in Orange county and has a very low crime record under the supervision of Chief of Police B. F. Richards.

The writer describes the chief's policy of humanizing the police department and bringing it in closer touch with the people and his friendly policy with the children of the town and with the men who are at the bottom but who are willing and ready to make another start on the ladder towards the top.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, May 18.—Miss Enna Huscroft spent part of yesterday afternoon and evening in Santa Monica with friends.

Friends of M. A. Daugherty, Orange contractor, will be pleased to learn that he is recovering his health rapidly following a serious operation at the Sawtelle hospital and that he expects to be able to resume his work in his office here soon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dozier, East Chapman avenue, have left for a two-day motor trip through the southern part of the state.

Mrs. Robert Bunch, Mrs. S. B. Edwards and Mrs. Sherman Gillogly are spending several days at Lake Elsinore. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gruwell drove to the resort last night and S. B. Edwards has spent a part of the week there.

Registered at the Sunshine hotel this week are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hage, of Santa Cruz; Joe Yeckers, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. George Forne, of Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. T. Emery, of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Rogers, of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. John Steed, of Fresno; Mr. and Mrs. John Hotchkies, of Los Angeles; L. S. K. Weber, D. Woodward and R. L. Hill, of Los Angeles.

Members of the Benedictine class of the First Methodist church are to hold an all-day meeting tomorrow at the Epworth hall. Sewing and quilting will be done during the day.

The R. P. C. class of the First Methodist church will hold a meeting tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Trafford Watson in Santa Ana canyon. A covered dish luncheon will be held at noon.

Mrs. Ray Stevens, of Glendale, arrived today to spend the remainder of the week in the home of her nephew, James Donegan, East Chapman avenue. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Donegan will have as guests, Mrs. Stevens' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Bean, of Glendale.

A building permit was issued to C. H. Stewart yesterday to build a screen porch on the residence at 345 North Harwood street. Lyle Hoskins has the contract for the work.

STORK VISITS SWANS
BOSTON—A taxicab is a rather odd place for a stork to visit the Swans, but that is what messenger from babyland recently did here. He dropped in as Lawrence Swan was racing with his wife to a hospital. The car was caught in heavy traffic and, during the halt, a baby girl was born.

CHICHESTERS PILLS
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichesters Pills in Red and Gold Metallic Boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take as directed. Buy only the genuine. Ask for "Chichesters Pills" for 40 years known to be safe, reliable. Buy now! SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR CHURCH GUILD

ORANGE, May 18.—When members of the Bertha Epley guild met last night in the parlors of the First Christian church, the report of the nominating committee was unanimously accepted and officers for the coming year were elected. Heading the organization for the coming year will be Mrs. Dorothy Ferrin as president, Mrs. Goldie Robinson, vice president, and Mrs. Lola Ditchey, secretary.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE!
VERDI, Nev., (UP)—Forty years ago, Pat Mitchell, rancher, lost a watch on his farm. This week, while cleaning a ditch, he found it again. No—it will never run again!

LET'S GO BUY-BUY With Betty Ann

MELIA-MARIE HATS, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. SPECIAL—VALUES $6.50 to $10—Amelia-Marie would like their patrons to know that they're offering this special of $3.95 on hats just now to reduce their stock to accommodate midseason merchandise. Materials and workmanship of Amelia-Marie hats are known throughout the county. This is a QUALITY bargain.

GREEN GABLES, 2115 N. Main, "Your Fashion Shop," the exclusive Santa Ana home of LA GRACE frocks—loveliest of the new summer cottons—announces a bevy of new LA Grace handkerchief linen and embroidered batiste, as cool, as colorful, as fresh as the dawn. Wear LA GRACE and KNOW you're appropriately and smartly dressed. GREEN GABLES is sure to catch your fancy with dressy volles, befrilled rayons, sheer prints, and no end of dainty near silks and silks. Never neglecting, of course, the more formal silks, and those simple, tailored travel and street dresses so definitely the right thing this summer.

Utt Juice Co., Tustin. QUEEN ISABELLA juices are a great convenience to have in the pantry for all kinds of weather. For instance, nothing can be more appetizing or hold more nutriment than the Queen Isabella golden-hued tomato juice in a hot bouillon these coolish, murky days; on the other hand, if the sun comes out and warms things up, you can still have your tomato juice in a cold cocktail, seasoned a bit with salt, pepper and lemon. And the Queen Isabella pure California-made grape juice just naturally fits all temperatures, for it's a delicious refreshment any hour of the day; and don't forget it has the iron content we all need at all times.

WHITE HOUSE CAFE, Laguna Beach. Orange streamers blowing—Blue birds flying by day point the way to the "White House"—Neon lights gleaming by night tell the traveler where to stop for the cheeriest spot to dine and drink in cozy comfort. The White House and Laguna Beach make one of those big double-decker treats that is good to the last inch of it. In Laguna you get scenic beauty, art and the romance of the sea; at Laguna's "White House" you get food high in flavor and satisfaction to the last epicurean appetite.

THE HUT, 137 Coast Blvd., Laguna Beach. NOTICE! KARMELE KORN has gone to the beach for the summer. Legunites and those of Orangites, you can't miss it, for KARMELE KORN is located conveniently between the Big Boulevard and the famous Malecon, the board walk. LOOK! There's "The Hut," half white and half orange fringed with black. Besides the delicious Karmele Korn and frozen fruit juices, fruit fluff, and ice cream.

JOE'S SELF-SERVICE GROC. ERY, Grand Central Annex, Broadway at Second. Take your market list to JOE'S and fill it without leaving the building—No finer lines of fancy groceries to be found anywhere, and the stock is kept fresh and up-to-the-moment in popular foodstuffs. Courteous attendants always on tap to carry that sagging market basket, and to point out articles you are prone to forget or overlook on the list. PRICES, of course, is always a big feature, too, at JOE'S, and particularly those week-end specials. Stock up for days at half cost on Joe's specials. TRADE with your independent grocer. It pays big.

N. ZERMAN, Feed and Seed. Sycamore side Grand Central Market. LOOKING for a singing bird? ZERMAN has it—Rollers, warblers, choppers, singers—in a nice roomy cage. Bird and cage offered at less than the bird, or the cage, singly sold for a year ago. See ZERMAN for fresh bulk bird seed of great variety and quality, specially priced 5 lbs. 50c.

TURNER'S FLIKIL. Buy it at Grocery, Hardware and Drug Stores, Orange County. It's an injustice for every housekeeper not to know about FLIKIL, that super-powered household insecticide that "Kills 'Em Dead" on the spot—Moths, mosquitoes, flies, ants, roaches, fleas, mites, and many other insects, flop when FLIKIL hits them. A few sprayings weekly, after you have first given the house, closed tight, a thorough spraying, will insure peace for the entire season of insects of all kinds. It is not only wisdom but economy to keep FLIKIL in the house, just as you'd keep matches or other necessities. FLIKIL is an excellent cleaner for porcelain washstands, bath tubs, sinks, etc., and automobile windows.

City's Hose And Hydrants Changed

ORANGE, May 18.—Work of changing the size of the hydrant caps and hose caps of the city has been completed, according to W. J. Richardson, city water superintendent. The work was done in order that hose would be of the size required by national standards, the size used before conforming to the Pacific coast standard and use nowhere else in the nation.

Hose caps and hydrants at the county hospital, St. Joseph's hospital and the packing plants were changed as well as the city equipment.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards has a pulling machine for testing anchor chains that will exert a pull of 2,300,000 pounds.

"WOLF" AT DOOR
YREKA (UP)—Opening her kitchen door, Ethel Roff found a 4-foot lynx in the room. She got a rifle and shot it. Hunger had driven the animal to the house.

INDEPENDENT ICE STATION. Main at 15th. "Haul your own and save"—This is a particularly wise plan just now, with the weather so uncertain it is impossible to tell from one hour to the next how much ice one may or may not need. PHONE 113 for delivery of the BEST artesian water ICE.

From somewhere back East they tell us that Burbank, Calif., has inadvertently developed a pink lemon. Now we'll have more pink teas.

HARD'S FLOWER SHOP, 2220 N. Main. LOOK for that "Everlasting" wreath, bouquet, etc., for Decoration Day out "Under the Big Redwood." They will have everything you could possibly wish in the way of flowers for this great Memorial Day, May 30th, but your order should be in as far in advance as possible, just to make sure you get exactly what you've set your heart on. Phone 3777—delivery if you wish.

WHAT OF SHARKEY?
If Schmeling is steadfast, by what would Jack Sharkey be what described? After three guesses, the word this writer likes best is "hysterical." It is a word that fits him whether he's winning or losing.

YOU SAID IT!
In a bout between Steadfastness and Hysteria, who would you pick? Of course! You can't lose. I'll take the turtle, too.

MR. MACK'S PRANK
The other day Mr. Connie Mack called the gentlemen of the press around him and admitted with a longer face than usual that the Athletics were "on their backs" and would find it a tremendous task to get back into the pennant race.

That was in the morning. And that same afternoon the Athletics went out and plastered Wesley Ferrell, one of the best pitchers in the league, for 12 hits and 12 runs in six innings, defeating Cleveland 15 to 3. The boys can do pretty well on their backs, at that.

THE ROBOT PITCHER
Somebody in San Francisco has invented a robot pitcher. The suggestion was made to the enterprising Lew Fonseca that he try to acquire the automatic flinger for his White Sox. Mr. Fonseca's reply was to the effect that he already had a whole bunch of robot moundmen.

MORE ABOUT SOX
The Sox are hard ones to figure. It seems to be a good ball club on paper, but the boys do everything wrong on the field.

Louis Comiskey is generous and will pay well for meritorious performance. Fonseca will be a good manager, too, after the newness of his executive position wears off.

SETTLE DELHI BOXING "WAR" AMICABLY; MCARTER HEADS PROGRAM TOMORROW NIGHT

All was quiet along the Delhi road front today. Promoter Elmer Wilkison and Matchmaker Kid Mexico, "head men" of the Orange County Athletic club's amateur boxing business, had settled their troubles amicably and were prepared to proceed as usual with another big show at the southside arena tomorrow night.

Wilkison and Mexico had a misunderstanding over money matters but their troubles were settled peacefully at a conference here late yesterday. It was announced that the alliance would continue "as is" with Wilkison the financial sponsor and Mexico making the matches as they have for the past eight months.

"Bud" McCarter, sensational Orange schoolboy middleweight, whose long winning streak was abruptly terminated several weeks ago by Henry Pena of Los Angeles, will meet Ted Woods in tomorrow's windup. The promoters are putting McCarter right back on top, giving him a chance to redeem himself for the Pena knock-out.

Tony O'Tero, employee of the Sears, Roebuck company here, is elevated to the semi-final spot because of his impressive showing on last Thursday's program. O'Tero goes into the firing pit against Johnny Harrison of Los Angeles. They are welters.

Bill Wena and Dave Murillo collide in the special event at 135 pounds. Seven other bouts, featuring such popular local favorites as Doyle Richards, Kid Sierra, Joe Palomino, Raoul and Sal Solis appear in seven preliminaries.

AMERICAN LEAGUE'S DEFENSE HELD BEST

NEW YORK, May 18.—(UP)—American league athletes have played more certain baseball than National league performers during the first five weeks of the season, who averaged 2.65 errors per game against 2.53.

Two hundred and ninety-five errors were charged against National players in the 111 games contested thus far, while American leaguers have made only 276 in their 109 games.

INDIA TO BE FIRST AT OLYMPIC VILLAGE

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(UP)—India's Olympic team will be the first to occupy the new Olympic village here following their arrival aboard the Shinyo Maru, N.Y.K. liner, June 11.

Lal Chand Mehra, India's Olympic attaché, said that a group of that country's field hockey stars, winners of the 1928 championship, and others would be in the first arriving party. G. D. Sandhi, honorary secretary of the Indian Olympic association, will head the delegation.

FRIDAY'S GAME DECIDES SAINT CHAMPIONSHIP

By PAUL WRIGHT
An aerial attack is highly capable of adding punch to a football game, and did at Poly field yesterday when two passes—Art Stranski to Fred Southworth of the sophomores in the third quarter; Herb Duncan to Lee Hamilton of the juniors in the fourth—were responsible for a 6 to 6 dead-lock, the second tie of Santa Ana High's annual interclass grid series.

The way things stand now, the winner of the junior-senior conflict, which Coach "Tex" Oliver has re-arranged for Friday, will become 1932 interclass champion, since a tie game counts for half-a-game won and half-a-game lost.

The sophomores, holding another tie, a 0 to 0 battle with the seniors, are 500 in the standings, and the juniors and seniors, with one tie game, are 500, too. The winner of the junior-senior contest will earn a 750 rating, the loser, 250. Unless the juniors and seniors tie Friday, the sophomores will have no chance for a share of first place honors, but the worst they will do is to finish second, the juniors and seniors in first and last.

Teams Show Improvement
The sophomore-junior game failed to lag as did the sophomore-senior contest of last week. Scoring opportunities, scarce in the first interclass game, bobbed up continually. The juniors, especially, were in scoring position time and again during the first half.

Captain Herb Duncan of the juniors started things in the opening minutes. Stranski, sophomore half, took Jack Mitchell's kick-off, failed to gain, so kicked to Clair Preininger, junior safety, on the junior 45-yard line. Unable to make yards, the juniors kicked, Duncan getting off a punt that rolled out of bounds on the soph 5-yard stripe. Stranski immediately booted to his own 32-yard mark, where the juniors started their first scoring thrust.

Lee Hamilton, halfback, circled left end for 12 yards, and Duncan found an opening in the right side of the line, gained 15 yards. He pierced right tackle again for 6 yards, putting the ball on the 9-yard line, with first down and goal to go. The sophomore wall strengthened, however, and the juniors were forced to surrender the ball within two yards of the goal. Then the promising Stranski faked a punt, sailed 17 yards around right end. After small gains through the line, the sophomores passed, Stranski to Ray Clark, end, for the 46-yard line as the quarter ended.

Mitchell Runs 46 Yards
Fullback Jack Mitchell, one of the stars of the game, intercepted Stranski's pass to the junior 42-yard line in the second quarter, skirted around left end and straight down the sidelines 46 yards. It was the juniors' second good scoring opportunity. Following the thrilling play, Paul Hales, who replaced Duncan at halfback, gained but few yards around the ends, and Mitchell's pass was blocked on fourth down. With the exception of a clever lateral pass, Hales to Mitchell, which was nothing thrilling about the remaining first-half play.

Fred Southworth, promising young end, accounted for the sophomore touchdown. During the middle of the third quarter he leaped high into the air, snagged Stranski's 30-yard pass to the 11-yard line, and raced over the goal with Mitchell at his heels. Stranski, trying a line plunge, failed to convert. The play dispirited the juniors who did not recover from the shock until the final period.

From the very start of the final period it was evident that the game was after a touchdown. With Hales and Duncan carrying the ball, the middleclassmen worked to the sophomore 30-yard line. Duncan unleashed a beautiful pass to Hamilton on the 10-yard mark, but Hamilton was covered. Failing to make further down, Duncan kicked over the goal.

Hamilton Scores
Hales placed the juniors in an other scoring position by intercepting Stranski's pass on the 22-yard line. On the third play after interception, Duncan sent a long side pass to Hamilton on the sophomore 21-yard mark. The ball was well in front of Hamilton but he made a nice catch and scampered on to tie the count at 6-all. Duncan failed to convert on a line plunge.

Commenting after the game, Coach Oliver was particularly impressed with the playing of Southworth, Stranski, Duncan, Mitchell, Waldo Smith and Jack Shanahan. He thought both backfield combinations looked good. Ford Underwood at fullback played of course, it was denied that the ball had been doctored. The moguls were indignant when some one timidly suggested that the ball of 1923 and 1930 (the years when it wasn't safe to walk within four blocks of a ball park without a raised umbrella) was just a trifle more frisky than its brothers of other years. But they never explained why batting averages jumped 25 and 30 points, why anemic shortstops and away-back pitchers were able to top the ball into adjoining counties, and why life insurance companies refused to deal with infielders.

Having been so gracious in providing the boys and girls with a ball that would satisfy their craving for home runs, the owners may take the same fine care of the patrons who do not on low-score games. This department's operation No. 24352 reports the moguls are experimenting with (1) a 16-pound shot, (2) an 18-pound shot, (3) a civil war cannon ball, (4) a grapefruit, (5) a watermelon, (6) a handful of feathers loosely enclosed in tissue paper, and (7) an edam cheese.

MAJOR LEAGUE SHUTOUTS DUE TO 'DEAD BALL'

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, May 18.—(UP)—Unless baseball customers are sincere in their wish to see slugger chased out of the game in favor of pitching battles, they would be wise to do a little braking on their enthusiasm over the shutout and near-shutout contests that are now the rage in the American league.

For the club owners, always eager to oblige, particularly to increase gate receipts, may produce a ball that will make no-score and low-score games as common as slipping off your shoes at a formal dinner. When the customers clamored for bigger and better home runs, the owners went into a huddle and brought forth a ball which a baby's pat would send into Mrs. Sweeney's backyard for a round trip.

Brea-Olinda Takes First Playoff Tilt

"Shorty" Smith's Brea-Olinda high school baseball team was in the thick of the scramble for the Southern California prep championship today, after eliminating Newt Stark's Muir Terriers of Pasadena, 5-1, at Fullerton yesterday.

Brea-Olinda next draws Citrus, champion of the Tri-County league, the contest being set for Fullerton Saturday. San Diego, Santa Barbara, Woodrow Wilson and Pomona are other schools in the playoff series.

Raymond Thompson, third baseman, and Landis, right fielder, did the heavy work for Brea against Muir Tech, while Pitcher Ryan was limiting Stark's hitters to three scattered singles and fanning 9. Thompson hit a homer and a triple. Landis a homer with one aboard.

EASTMAN ABANDONS 880 AT CAL. MEET

BERKELEY, May 18.—(UP)—Ben Eastman, Stanford university's middle-distance record-holder, will not take part in the 880-yard event at the California intercollegiate track and field meet here Saturday, it was announced today.

Eastman, word from Stanford said, will run in the 440 and run the anchor lap in the relay, but will not attempt to do the "iron man" act.

Bob Kiesel, University of California sprint star, will appear in both the 100 and 220.

Frank Wykoff, Trojan ace, may not run at all, word from Southern California said. He was reportedly opposed to canceling further injury to a strained back before trying for the Olympic Games and the I. C. A. A. A. contests.

ORANGE TENNIS TOURNAMENT LURES SINGLES STARS

Considered emblematic of the county prep singles championship, Orange HI's fifth annual invitational tennis tournament, to which all county high schools and nearby districts will send athletes, is scheduled for tomorrow and Friday.

Ray Warren, tennis coach at Orange HI, has announced that only singles matches will be carded.

Permanent possession of a striking trophy will be awarded the school winning the tournament three times. Santa Ana, thanks to Stewart McPherson, won in 1928, the first year of the tourney.

Robert Allen of Fullerton led the field in 1929, Bob Kirk of Tustin in 1930 and Walter Blair of Corona in 1931.

Corona's Blair will return again this year, along with Clyde Henry of Garden Grove, who was runner-up to the 1931 champion.

Lewis Wetherell, Santa Ana first singles star, probably will be seeded No. 1, with Blair No. 2, Harold Henus of Fullerton No. 3 and Jack Cheatham of Anaheim No. 4.

Jaysee Game Is Awarded L. A. College

Offering the local institution a $35 guarantee, Los Angeles has been granted the Southern California junior college championship baseball game between Santa Ana and Los Angeles, it was learned today.

The Dons were given an opportunity to have the game here, but satisfactory financial arrangements could not be made. With the $35 guarantee, Coach Clyde Cook felt it advisable to play at Los Angeles. The game will begin at 2:15 Saturday, with Jim Tunney of Los Angeles and George Stovall of Long Beach as the umpires.

The Dons will drill daily at Poly field in preparing for the important tilt. Although better than average on offense, Santa Ana needs to brush up on its hitting this week. Los Angeles boasts a fine hurler. Defensively, the Dons are at their peak.

Santa Ana, defending champion, was doing business today at the same old stand.

The Stars were again leading the National Night league which they have dominated in five of the past six years.

George Lackaye's champions personally accounted for the disposal of one of three teams that headed the standings prior to last night's contests by beating the surprising Westminster Aviators, 1-0, at the Santa Ana Bowl.

Long Beach attended to the rest by upsetting Whittier, 5-3. "String" McDonnell, who shutout Anaheim last week, was the victim of the Acorns' fury. The lanky fast-ball submariner didn't start.

Ernie Contreras got the call and Long Beach got to him for a 2-0 lead in five innings. McDonnell then went on to pitch a 2-0 lead but "String" couldn't hold it.

Long Beach scored thrice in the eighth, won the decision. Osborne singled. So did Lower, and Osborne sprinted to third on the hit and Lower to second on the throw. Murray's single tallied both runners. Murray pulled up at second on the throw-in, scored on Al Davis' single.

In the second, Leonard Forney singled him home; in the fifth, Weininger walked, Brown singled him to third and took second on the throw-in, and both scored on Smith's single; in the sixth, Forney singled and tallied on Brown's double.

The National Night league rubbed its eyes today and gazed on what amounted to a baseball phenomena. The mighty Anaheim Vandenberg repored in the cellar, probably for the first time in their history.

Torrance handed Vic Ruedy's struggling team its third successive setback at Torrance last night, 4 to 2. "Fuzzy" Errington, Anaheim's ace pitcher, was the victim of bunched hits in the second, fifth and sixth innings.

In the second, Leonard Forney singled him home; in the fifth, Weininger walked, Brown singled him to third and took second on the throw-in, and both scored on Smith's single; in the sixth, Forney singled and tallied on Brown's double.

Joe Menes' long home run over Forney's head gave Anaheim one in the seventh. Doubles by Kohler and Higgins produced another in the ninth.

Council Given Facts On Sewage Reclamation Project

McFADDEN AND WAYNICK TALK IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, May 18.—A complete report regarding the costs to the city of Fullerton and some of the resulting advantages to this city, was presented by members of the water conservation committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau to the city council last night in which all phases of the proposed sewage reclamation plan were explained. Ralph McFadden as chairman of the committee was present and he introduced Walter Humphrey, of Fullerton, and D. D. Waynick, of Anaheim, who explained in detail the different angles of the project.

Plan Explained
Walter Humphrey stated that the engineering problems in connection with the proposed project were not so difficult as the political problems. With the aid of a map, he briefly explained the plan which had been worked out. He stated that it was quite possible that the cost of satisfactorily treating the outfall sewer would amount to $500,000 and that it might be advisable to spend this sum of money in a sewer disposal plant. He explained where the sewer from the different cities would be piped to a treating plant somewhere in the Santa Ana river above Orange. To eliminate all salty water which would be in excessive amounts such as from the waste water disposal plant near Fullerton or the industrial plants in Anaheim, a by-pass would be installed to let this water on through the present sewer line. By map he showed where the seven districts were located which would comprise the district and which would include all of Orange county from Fullerton south to the beach cities.

Following the talk by Humphrey, several questions were asked by City Attorney Albert Launer. He asked whether or not the cities of Southern California would be ordered by state officials in the near future to cease emptying sewer water in the ocean.

Tells of Experiments
McFadden partially answered the question by stating that the city of Los Angeles is now conducting experiments along these lines in its Griffith Park plant with this idea in view.

Launer then asked Humphrey if the proposed plan was sufficiently large to anticipate the time when all of the Orange county cities would be ordered to discontinue its present plan of carrying the sewer to the ocean. He was told the construction of additional treating plants and other additions would undoubtedly take care of this increase.

McFadden stated to the councilmen that a similar plan was now in operation in Santa Clara county which sewer disposal plan was made possible through Bill No. 825 and which would also apply to Orange county.

Cost $1,341,000
D. D. Waynick stated that the entire project would cost $1,341,000, according to the engineer's estimate. He submitted a complete report in which the costs were estimated for the city of Fullerton and he showed some of the credits which would result such as the sale of water to the irrigation companies. He stated that the city of Fullerton, for some unknown reason, was using more water per capita than any city in Orange county.

In conclusion, McFadden asked that the councilmen give real thought and study to the plan and then give the committee an expression of its view.

Frank Cagle, president of the Workers' legion appeared before the council and requested official recognition for the unemployed group which he represented. This was done. A request was also asked to make solicitation of food for the commissary as well as funds. This matter was referred to Mayor Hale and City Attorney Launer for action.

A demonstration of a new and improved traffic light was given by company representatives from Los Angeles. No action was taken in this regard by the councilmen.

Harry May, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, invited the councilmen to act as judges for the bicycle parade, which will be held May 28. The councilmen accepted the invitation. Prizes will be awarded in this event of the Jacaranda festival. He also announced the semi-finals and finals of the baseball games which would be played by four of the elementary school teams of Northern Orange county which would be played the same day.

A request that the city trustees provide bleachers at the ball grounds in the park was brought up by Mayor Hale. It was shown that permanent bleachers which would seat 250 persons would cost about $250. No action was taken.

Councilman Corcoran brought up the matter of the Legion soup kitchen. He stated that there was a need for funds if the kitchen was to be operated through the summer. Chief of Police James Pearson was called upon. He stated that the soup kitchen had filled a much needed place during the winter time, but stated that in the summer time there was less need for it. Frank Cagle, president of the local unemployed group, stated that his organization had aided the soup kitchen with excess food and would continue to do so. No action was taken by the council.

The first reading of an ordinance previously considered and studied relating to license fees was passed for its first reading. The ordinance pertaining to the regulation of pool rooms in this city will be presented at the next regular meeting of the council by City Attorney Launer for consideration.

NAME OFFICERS NAZARENE CHURCH

LA HABRA, May 18.—Members of the Church of the Nazarene, held an organization meeting this week and elected officers for the church board for the coming year. Mrs. Katie Terwilliger was chosen secretary of the church board, Mrs. William Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. Alton Hacker, financial secretary.

Members of the membership committee are James Eddington, B. A. Scott and Lowell Williams; ways and means committee, Mrs. Ruby Reimann, Mrs. Katie Terwilliger and Mrs. W. E. Ellis; visiting committee, Mrs. Nellie Scott, Mrs. W. K. Corum, Mrs. C. E. Bowers and Mrs. Katie Terwilliger; building committee, J. A. Scott, Alton Hacker and Lowell Williams.

Mrs. Ruby Reimann was chosen junior supervisor with Mrs. William Thomas as assistant and Billie Thomas as janitor elect. The next meeting of the church board will be a business meeting.

WATER FACTS PRESENTED AS CENTERS MEET

YORBA LINDA, May 18.—Consideration of the seriousness of the water situation in Orange county and reports of committees occupied the time of the business session of Yorba Linda and Placentia farm centers at their joint meeting in Yorba Linda Monday night, while the latter part of the session was devoted to hearing Harry Wahlberg, county farm advisor, tell of his trip through the Mediterranean countries, illustrating his lecture with slides.

It was planned to hold the next meeting a joint affair at Placentia. It will be the third Thursday of June.

After many reports on water, Harry Hale, Placentia rancher, said that there need be no fear of water being taken from Orange county above Bunker Hill dam in Riverside county. The spreading of water is in safe hands, he said, being directed by a committee on conservation formed many years ago and working in conjunction for water conservation.

George Kellogg called attention to the Allison plan of getting Colorado river water to this part of California, declaring that the Allison plan of conservation, which proposes to store waste water in a Salton sea in Mexico and pump it back, will some time have to be decided on in opposition to the Metropolitan district water.

He said the difference in cost is in favor of the Allison plan but that international problems may enter into making it a plan hard to handle.

After discussing by Hale of the work the water companies are doing to conserve water, Wahlberg told of a tribunal on water that meets each Thursday in Valencia, Spain, to discuss water. He said these meetings have been in session each week for nearly 300 years.

Wahlberg showed slides of the work done in Morocco, in Spain, Italy and France in citrus culture, and declared that the fruit is planted in large quantities.

Austin Marshall, who presided, called attention to a new work just completed by Wahlberg in which he has compiled figures on cost of avocado culture. He said it is the first work of the kind to be published.

Ralph McFadden reported on water conservation. William Coulter gave a report of the activity of the farm bureau; Kellogg supplemented Coulter's report; Jack Crill announced the meeting at Irvine park, where national directors will be present, May 24. Yorba Linda center will make that an occasion for holding the annual farm center picnic there.

Highway Body To Hear John Quinn

YORBA LINDA, May 18.—John R. Quinn, former national commander of the American Legion, a supervisor of the Los Angeles county, will be the principal speaker at the May meeting of the Imperial Highway association May 31 at the Mines aviation field on Imperial highway in Los Angeles. The meeting will be in celebration of the completion of two miles of pavement in the Imperial highway from Mines field to El Segundo, according to George Kellogg, secretary of the association, who resides in Yorba Linda.

School Musical Organizations To Present Program

300 TO TAKE PART IN FREE
CONCERT HERE

The boys' and girls' glee clubs of the Frances E. Willard and Julia C. Lathrop Junior High schools and the Santa Ana P. T. A. Mothers' chorus will combine to give a concert in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced today by Frances Hunt Beeson, director of music in Santa Ana schools. The program is offered free to the public.

The Willard groups will offer "Selections from Grand Operas" and will be directed by Esther Jean Davis and Helen Glancey, and accompanied by Gladys P. Campbell and Helen Holmes.

The Santa Ana P. T. A. Mothers' chorus will be directed by Mrs. H. G. Wetherill. This chorus will sing two spring selections and a number by Rubenstein. Robert Brown, well known baritone vocalist, will sing the solo part, and George Evans will play the violin obligato.

Lathrop's part of the program will be a 30 minute operetta called "The Treasure Chest" by Otis M. Carrington. This is a college story but involves pirates and gypsies with their interesting and colorful costumes. It will be directed by Miss Edith Cornell and Mrs. Mervyn M. Bryte.

Combined orchestras from the two junior high schools will also play several selections during the program.

Three hundred people will participate in the program. Friends and patrons are cordially invited to attend this free, interesting and varied program.

The complete program for the evening follows:

Program
1—Class Leader (Wellesley), combined orchestra from Willard and Lathrop Junior High schools, Esther Jean Davis, director.

2—Hall Bright Abode from "Tanhauser" (Wagner); My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice from "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saens); Morning Praise from "Orpheus and Eurydice" (Gluck); Willard Girls' Glee club, Helen Glancey, director, Helen Holmes, accompanist.

3—Anvil Chorus from "I Trovatore" (Verdi); Over the Summer Sea from "Rigoletto" (Verdi); Soldiers Chorus from "Faust" (Gounod); Willard Boys' Glee club; Esther Jean Davis, director, Gladys Campbell, accompanist.

4—At Sundown (Creighton), combined junior high school orchestras, Esther Jean Davis, director.

5—Green Cathedral (Hahn); Butterfly (Delibes); Reve Anglique (Rubenstein); Santa Ana P. T. A. Mothers' chorus, Frances Hunt Beeson, director; Mrs. H. G. Wetherill, accompanist; Robert Brown, vocal soloist; George Evans, vocal obligato.

6—May Dance (Reynard); Summer Days (Norman); combined orchestras, Edith Cornell, director.

7—Operetta — "The Treasure Chest" (Otis M. Carrington); Lathrop Junior High school Girls' and Boys' Glee clubs, Edith Cornell and Maxine Zolman Bryte, directors.

Students playing leading parts in the production are: Ross Boyd, Jack Robinson, Elden Klingenberg and Wintred Gallienne, leaders of Omega Phi fraternity; Gwendolyn Griffin, Helen Trickey and Marjorie Wonder, leaders of Mu Zeta Rho sorority; and Virginia Prichard and Robert Hunsaker, playing the parts of college students so far not in sorority or fraternity.

SAN CLEMENTE
C. OF C. URGES
GAS TAX SPLIT

The board of directors of the San Clemente chamber of commerce at its meeting yesterday went on record as criticizing the distribution of gasoline tax funds as made by the board of supervisors. The directors state that San Clemente, a heavy buyer of gasoline, has not received its just share of this tax money when it has been returned to the county board of supervisors by the state.

Members voted to write the board of supervisors requesting gasoline tax money for the Spanish Village. It is planned to use the money for improvements on the $400,000 state park in San Clemente. The board also stated it believed the county should appropriate money for work on the state park as it now does for other public parks in the county.

The board also went on record as urging George Jeffery, supervisor of the fifth district to display more interest in the southern part of the county. Jeffery, it is said, has not visited San Clemente for a long time, in fact not since the Spanish Village gave him practically a unanimous vote when he sought reelection. Directors believe that should the board of supervisors visit San Clemente, inspect the state park and the work already done to improve it, they would see that certain money would be distributed to make it useful to the citizens of Orange county this coming summer.

AIR COAST DEFENSE GUNS IN ACTION

The blinding flashes and thunderous roar of Uncle Sam's newest mobile anti-aircraft weapons turned Fort MacArthur, near San Pedro, Calif., into a terrifying battlefield when the Sixty-third anti-aircraft regiment rained shells at mythical air raiders. In this striking night scene, the camera caught two of the air coast defense giants at the instant of discharge. At two-second intervals, the guns blasted away at the "enemy invaders." Ten-ton trucks pull these monster weapons into position at 40 miles an hour.

RECALLS CAMPAIGN OF 1876
WHEN DRY HAD TO PROVIDE
ELECTION NEWS FOR SALOON

In the spring of 1875 residents of Santa Ana were just as, and perhaps more anxious, to get the results of elections and other news as quickly as possible as they are now, 57 years later. But news service at that time was far inferior to what it is now, and the radio was unthought of. Many Santa Ana pioneers recall this election as the time a dry worker had to furnish election returns to a saloon and refer all inquiries to that abhorred place.

And so it was, that in 1875 many a presidency. At that time it was customary for the telegraph company to sell the rights on giving out the returns from an election. As it happened, Mrs. Blee was a member of a local church and an ardent dry worker, and it was with a feeling of distinct reluctance and antipathy that she was forced to sell the returns to a saloon here, the only bidder. She was not allowed, as the operator, to give out any information concerning the election, but had to direct everyone who inquired, including her church and dry friends, to the saloon, where the information was given out.

The election lasted for more than six weeks, due to the trouble encountered in several states, where the votes were declared illegal because of the refusal to allow negroes to vote in accordance with the thirteenth amendment, which freed the slaves and gave them voting privileges.

The telegraph office was moved downtown and another operator secured two years after it had been established here in the dining room of Mrs. Blee's home, when she refused to allow her percentage to be cut from 50 to 10. An old resident of Santa Ana, Mrs. Blee's husband, Ed Stafford, bought a large ranch here in 1868, the year before the town was founded by William Spurgeon. The family moved here in 1874.

Her most trying experience came at the presidential election of 1876, when Hayes and Tilden were opposing each other for the

LEAGUE PLANS
ORGANIZATION OF TAXPAYERS

A round table discussion on the best and quickest methods of organizing in every town in Orange county to awaken every property owner to the absolute necessity of taking group action to reduce taxes and government costs, and an address by John Litch, of New York, industrial advisor, featured a meeting of the Orange County Taxpayers and Voters association held yesterday afternoon in the Santa Ana cafe.

Litch employed his own methods of increasing profits for some 32 large corporations, which are based on the same principles in which the United States government was founded, he said.

Concentrate On Goal
"I believed the best method of building prosperity in an industry was to establish an industrial democracy," he declared, "to find the basic corrective facts, and concentrate of a definite goal to increase profits. After working for 22 years among corporations and big companies, I decided that there was no reason why these same principles which were originally taken from the principles of our government, could not be applied to them, to result in saving money."

Demand Action
"This is not a depression, it is an oppression. Get the facts in order. Find out what tax reduction you want and what can be done about it, then, as citizens of a county of 120,000 inhabitants, demand of officials that they do it. Demand that they ease the burden and act as your representatives or tell them you intend to get representatives that will represent you. Why wait until election time? Why not start now. Something must be done, we are on the verge of a revolution."

President J. A. Vye of Fullerton presided over the meeting and led a round table discussion on the best and quickest methods of organizing taxpayers in every city in the county. Various representatives were asked to contact interested citizens and ask them to attend the meetings. Another meeting will be called in the near future by the president, it was announced.

CONFERENCE ON FARM NEWS TO BE HELD HERE

The rural editors and reporters of Orange county are being invited to a conference on rural news reporting next Wednesday, May 25, held under the auspices of the Agricultural Extension service, in co-operation with the University of California, Orange County Press association and the Farm Bureau.

Harold Ellis, editor of the University Press and formerly rural editor of the Sacramento Bee, will have charge of the institute. E. Wahlberg, who has arranged for the meeting in Orange county. The morning session will start at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon session at 1:30, both of which will be held in the farm advisor's headquarters, room 221, courthouse annex.

Representatives from the 12 farm centers in Orange county and the 38 4-H agricultural clubs will also be present. John B. Phillips, president of the Orange County Press association, will address the group during the day.

The purpose of the institute is to make available to the rural editors and reporters a brief course embodying the latest fundamentals in rural news writing. Similar institutes have been held in other counties.

The sessions are open to any one engaged in news gathering, according to Wahlberg.

PRESBYTERIAN
CHURCH PLANS
ANNUAL PICNIC

Members of the United Presbyterian church will hold their annual congregational picnic in Sycamore Grove, Santa Ana canyon all day Saturday. The picnic grounds, located about a half mile beyond Sulphur Slide has been turned over to the church for its exclusive use on that day.

Basket lunch will be served at 1 p. m. giving people who work until noon an opportunity to reach the picnic grounds before lunch. Coffee and ice cream will be provided by the church.

A church bus will be used to take picnickers to the grounds and will leave Edison school at 9 a. m. and leave the church at 10:20 a. m. Transportation for persons who cannot leave at that time will be arranged through Martin Warren of the transportation committee.

Following are members of the various committees working with Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, superintendent of the Bible school to make the picnic a success: general chairman—Will McBurney; place—Don Hilliard, J. T. Raitt; transportation—Steele Finley, Martin Warren; amusements—Lester Boyle, Scott Torrens, Violet Hilliard, Carlye Dennis, Mary Warren; tables—Harvey Allen, Mrs. T. L. Warren, T. L. ### S. A. Woman Arranges Birthday Observance In Honor of Niece

A happy tribute was paid Miss Ruby Mann of Los Angeles, niece of Dr. Loretta Mann Hammond of this city, at a pleasant birthday affair prompted by Miss Mann's birthday anniversary and given by Dr. Hammond for a small family group in the home of this city on Sunday.

Miss Mann, honoree, Dr. Hammond, her hostess, Dr. Hammond's granddaughter, Mrs. Hans Genok of Los Angeles; Mrs. Genok and her daughter, Elaine Genok, great-granddaughter of Dr. Hammond, comprised the gathering assembled for the birthday feast, which preceded an hour or two of more informal festivity, enjoyed in the Hammond apartment at 201 West First street.

Impromptu remarks, urged at the dinner's close, drew from Miss Mann who boasts a Master of Arts degree and is on the faculty of a Los Angeles high school, comment regarding the place of "bachelor maids" in homes of today. Miss Mann indicated the value of such young women to the families of which they are a part and her remarks proved as pointed as those of Dr. Hammond, whose flow of witty converse and whose handling of her hostess obligations gave no indication of her 30 years. In the course of the conversation reference was made to Miss Mann's early experience with aviation, she having been one of the first women passengers to make a trip by airplane from Los Angeles to Chicago when the air service was being established.

Referring to the apartment of their hostess, guests found opportunity to bestow birthday gifts upon the guest of honor and to shower her with birthday wishes. A birthday cake, presented Miss Mann, provided a happy culmination to the day's festivities.

Moav Club Members Hold Novel Party

A barnyard animal theme was used at the party given members of the Moav club Monday evening when Miss Ernestine Wackham and Miss Eleanor Wisner entertained in the former's home "Rancho Del Wackham," near Garden Grove. Each girl had to give the password, "Moo," in order to be admitted into the living room, where pig, and other animal games were played.

Opera tickets were checked in, and fiesta committee reports were made. Final plans were made for the Mothers' tea, to be held May 25, in the home of Miss Mildred Spicer, Broadway park.

Refreshments of a strawberry and marshmallow dessert topped with whipped cream were served with animal crackers to the hostesses, Miss Wackham and Miss Wisner, and the Misses Katherine Chapman, Mildred Spicer, Hazel Elton, Edna Hall, Edith Bailey, Violet Johnson, Helen Wisner, Gertrude Jentges, Eugenia Huddle, Jane Cunningham, Joanna Day, Elizabeth Skiles, Elizabeth Rinkler and the adviser, Miss Frances Egge.

Birthday Celebrated With Luncheon at Anaheim Park

A group of relatives and friends took part in a recent picnic luncheon at Anaheim park, honoring Russell Alford, of Compton. The occasion marked his birthday anniversary. Turkey was the piece de resistance of the menu, which was concluded with the serving of a decorated birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Alford's mother-in-law, Mrs. Edith McMillan, of Santa Ana. Those in the group included Mrs. Edith McMillan, Miss Miriam Adamson, Frederic McMillan, and Lloyd McMillan, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Alford and baby daughter, Mary Edith, of Compton; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Perrie and Mrs. Ada Perrie, of Chino, and her son, Francis Perrie, of Anaheim. Francis Perrie is enrolled at St. Catherine's Military academy in Anaheim. Members of the picnic group enjoyed watching the students drill during the day.

Houseguest Honored At Impromptu Party

Complimenting their house guest, Miss Mildred Daley, who returned today to her home in Stockton following a several days' visit here, the Misses Julia and Elpha Thorndike entertained with an impromptu party Monday evening in their home, 1523 North Broadway. Miss Daley was formerly of this city.

Bridge was played during the evening, with Miss Frances Vieira receiving an attractive prize for scoring high. A guest prize was awarded Miss Daley.

During the refreshment hour following a pink and green motif was observed in all appointments. Sweet peas were the flowers used, while other decorative details included novel napkins and nut cups.

Those present were the Misses Betty Smith, Helen Spangler, Loretta Spangler, Jean Peacock, Frances Vieira, Marguerite Leont, Lillian Neumann, Winifred Johnson, Georgia Turner, Beth Westcott, Barbara Rurup, Louise Rurup, Mesdames Edwin Linsbaird, Julia Hyle, Ernest Crumrine, Francis Norton and the honoree, Miss Daley, and the hostesses, the Misses Julia and Elpha Thorndike.

Business Girls Elect New Executives

Election of officers took place last night at the meeting of the Wrycende Maegden club of the Y. W. C. A., held in the Y. W. rooms. Miss Katherine Spicer was named president. Others chosen were Miss Eliza Venn, vice president; Miss Helen Mayes, secretary; Miss Mary Ford, treasurer; and as chairmen: Miss Marie Smith, finance; Miss Eva Deane Caekey, social; Miss Dorothy Dresser, service; and Miss Fay Stinson, program.

Following dinner, the girls discussed plans for attending Astoria conference, July 14-15.

Church Women Arrange Tea As Compliment To Mrs. McPeak

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. W. H. McPeak, an especially memorable occasion this year, thanks to the thoughtfulness of her friends, a number of whom, associates in the United Presbyterian church, conspired to fete her on her birthday yesterday at a tea given in the home of Mrs. James A. Smiley on North Flower street.

The tea table at which guests were received and from which they were served by Mrs. John McFadden and Miss Minnie Cowan, found an appropriate centerpiece in a large, beautifully decorated birthday cake, while other appointments were in equal keeping with the festive occasion.

A pleasant feature of the afternoon was represented in the presentation to Mrs. McPeak of a set of table linen of handsome design, the gift being bestowed by Mrs. W. W. Hoy in behalf of her fellow guests. Guests spent the remainder of the afternoon tendering their congratulations and assuring the honoree, individually, of their warm wishes in her behalf.

Miss Palmer Chosen Head of Spinners

Miss Betty Palmer was chosen supreme spinster for next year at a meeting of the Spinners, Junior college girls' club, Monday evening, in her home, 237 North Orange street, Orange. Miss Pat Oliphant was elected sub-supreme spinster; Miss Betty Hawk, keeper of the quilt; Miss Florence Turner, keeper of the button box, and Miss Barbara Rurup, member of the box.

Final plans were made for Spinner week, to be held May 22 to 27, during which Miss Allen Adams will have charge of issuing El Don. Miss Frances Bowman, of the assembly, and Miss Saragrace Frampton and Miss Betty Hawk, of the dinner dance to be given at the Deauville Beach club in Santa Monica May 27. New officers will be installed at this time.

Those present included the hostess, Miss Betty Palmer, and the Misses Bernice Keller, Saragrace Frampton, Florence Turner, La Treille Dohner, Betty Hawk, Nellie Frauton, Frances Bowman, Pat Oliphant, Dorothy Minor, Marian Parsons, Wilma Paterson, Ione DeRomer, Beth Collar, Eunice Hoffmann, Hazel Spencer, Dora Tedford, Bernice Summers and Marie Mook.

Study Group Formed By Members of Woman's Club

Santa Ana Woman's club members held two interesting meetings yesterday afternoon in the bungalow of the First Congregational church, for many of those who attended the regular session at 2 o'clock also were present for the meeting held earlier in the afternoon when a study group was organized.

The gold standard was discussed during the earlier meeting, Mrs. W. H. Kuhn and Mrs. C. H. Stanley reading papers on the topic. Mrs. William Whitehead, Mrs. W. H. Kuhn and Mrs. Knight were appointed members of a committee to make study plans. The club will meet once a month.

Regular Session
Mrs. Carl Mock, speaker at the general meeting, urged that women keep what rights they have, and make use of them, rather than strive for equal rights with men. Changing times will bring changing rights, she said.

Mrs. Mock compared California laws concerning women's rights with those of other states, indicating that women in this state have greater advantages than those in other sections of the country.

The program included songs, "Tenting Tonight" and "Glorious California," given by the club chorus, with Marie Stanton Evely directing.

The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. J. D. Watkins. Mrs. William Wells, social leader, announced that the next social meeting will be held at Irvine park Monday, June 6. Members of the club and their families are invited to attend. Hostesses for the recent social meeting were Mrs. Elia Webster, Mrs. Minnie Cole and Mrs. J. H. Tompkins.

Household Section

Spends Day in Los Angeles

A day at Los Angeles was enjoyed this past week by members of the Fourth Household Economics section of Ebell society, who motored to the College Inn for luncheon. Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Hisekey, Mrs. Cyrus Lurker, Mrs. A. Thorndike and Mrs. R. W. Bales.

During the day, a short business session was held, with Mrs. S. I. Preble in charge. It was reported that a nice sum had been realized from the recent Kiwanis dinner served by the section. The books were turned over to the new officers: Mrs. Herbert Krahling, leader; Mrs. W. V. Whitson, vice-leader; Mrs. O. H. Umberham, secretary and Mrs. Cyrus Lurker, treasurer.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent at Exposition park. Those present were Mesdames Clyde Bach, M. C. Williams, Ben Baker, C. A. Westgate, F. E. Moore, S. A. Jones, W. W. Kays, S. I. Preble, Herbert Krahling, O. H. Umberham, Dr. Estelle Workman, Miss Ida Nay, the hostess group and special guests including Mrs. Mary Craig, of Santa Ana, Mrs. McClelland and Mrs. Grace Bond and Mrs. T. F. Ham, of Los Angeles. Both Mrs. Ham and Mrs. Bond are former members of the section.

Friends Take Part In Celebration Of Birthday

As Jerry Phillips was born on Friday, May 13, it seemed especially appropriate that he should celebrate his fifth birthday anniversary by giving a party on Friday of last week. With his mother, Mrs. C. Phillips, assisting in plans, he gave the affair in his home at 2068 Standard avenue.

Following an afternoon of games, guests were invited to the dining room where a table was prettily appointed for the serving of refreshments. Ice cream, frosted animal cookies and individual cakes topped with lighted candles, were served. Shades were drawn while the candles were blown out, with many good wishes for the happy host.

Those present, other than Jerry Phillips, were Paul Reese, Donald Butler, Gene Clark, Wesley Clark, and Clarence Martin of Santa Ana; Edna-May Squires, Ronald Squires, Billie Squires of Tustin and Dickie Crawford of Newport Beach.

Mothers present, other than Mrs. Phillips, were Mrs. Charles Crawford of Newport Beach; Mrs. Edward Squires, Mrs. Haydn Squires and Mrs. C. Squires of Tustin; and Mrs. Lester Clark of Santa Ana. Mrs. C. Squires is Jerry's grandmother.

Second Travel Group Re-elects Officers For New Year

At the suggestion of the nominating committee, members of the Second Travel section of Ebell society Monday afternoon re-elected retiring officers to serve again next year. The list includes Mrs. T. A. Winkler, leader; Mrs. John Backus, vice-leader; Mrs. C. P. Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. J. H. Tompkins, treasurer.

The meeting was held in the clubhouse, where a covered-dish luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock. Hostesses were Mrs. J. J. Harrison and Mrs. W. W. Anderson.

The program included vocal solos by Mrs. Cecile Frances Willis, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong. Her numbers were two negro spirituals and "Chloe." Mrs. W. W. Anderson talked on her recent trip to the Boulder Dam. Other members who had been there contributed interesting bits to the discussion.

Plans Are Underway For Benefit Party

Plans for their last benefit party of the season are being made by members of the ways and means committee of the American Legion auxiliary, it was announced today. The party is to be held Tuesday afternoon May 24.

The place of meeting and other details are to be decided at a meeting this week. Members of the committee include Mesdames Leland Eubank, Earl Lepper, Kenneth Stowe and John Turton.

ARRANGE PROGRAM FOR CHURCH GROUP

YORBA LINDA, May 18.—Plans have been made to have the Rev. Joseph Reese, pastor of the church, have been issued to about 50 women who are interested in the work. The morning will be spent in sewing for the Mexicans and the afternoon session is to be spent at hearing the talks and at review of a study book by Mrs. Epperley. Mrs. J. T. Rountree and Miss Wanda Lowrey are to present a missionary playlet, according to Mrs. Clinton Marshburn, president. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish for luncheon.

On Friday and Saturday delegates and many others plan to attend the Friends quarterly meeting at Whittier church.

The Get Busy Sunday school class of the church, Clinton Marshburn teacher, is to hold a social pot luck supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Le Brecht Friday evening.

STRONG DRAMA OPENS TODAY AT BROADWAY

Another of Fannie Hurst's infrequent but always outstanding film dramatizations of understandable men and women opened at the Fox Broadway theater today with the first local showing of RKO-Radio Pictures' "Symphony of Six Million," co-featuring Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne.

The film is another "Humoresque" in the classical romanticism and poignancy of its subject matter and in the sheer dramatic force of its characterizations.

Like most of the stories by this eminent American authoress, the locale is New York's vibrant East Side which is represented in the film truthfully as a throbbing symbol of intermixed racial cultures.

The story is the saga of an East Side doctor, a man of extreme idealism, who consecrates his life and his great skill in the treatment of the poor and helpless.

His family, believing that exploitation of his skill will result in their financial betterment, influences him to move to the exclusive Park Avenue section of the city. There his talents are rewarded by the wealthy, but in the meantime he has lost contact with his early environment and the idealism that had once made him devote his life to the poor.

He is awakened to his former sense of duty to the poor after he performs an unsuccessful operation upon his father and when Jessica, (Irene Dunne) herself in danger of death, shames him into a new sense of duty.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Chubby Child Needs More Protein

Don't be afraid to give your child generous amounts of protein foods. A child may be well fleshed yet always lagging at the end of the day.

Starchy foods play too large a part in this child's diet; he is covered with soft fat instead of good hard muscle, and the demands made on his system by play and growth are not met by the starchy foods. Protein, and only protein, makes tissue, bone, hair and nails. Children should have milk and eggs daily, meat, if possible, cheese occasionally.

One-fifth of the day's food must be taken from the protein division if your child is to grow as he should. This division includes meat, fish, eggs, cheese of all kinds, milk, cream, with butter included because of its growth vitamin. All dried legumes (beans and peas) and whole grains used in cereal form and in bread. This last section is regarded as an "incomplete protein," requiring the addition of milk to make a full protein.

Dried, lima beans, well cooked seasoned with butter and eaten with milk as a beverage make an ideal protein requirement for the average child.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Asparagus and Chicken
2 cups cold chicken or veal, diced
1 cup asparagus tips
1 egg
1-2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Minced parsley
Hot buttered toast

For this dish I think a small can of asparagus tips would be the quickest way to supply this vegetable. Open the can, rinse the tips and immerse in boiling water to heat them a bit, then drain and cut them across, or, if you dislike the combination in the cream sauce, just heat the tips, dress with butter and use as a garnish with the creamed meat.

Blend flour and butter in a double boiler, add the milk and stir to a smooth sauce. Have the meat cut in dice, add to the

Add the tips and just before serving stir in the well beaten egg, folding it in rather than stirring, to avoid musing up the asparagus. Have thin slices of buttered toast arranged on a platter, pour the creamed mixture over the toast, sprinkle with parsley and serve.

The recipe is large enough to serve four.

WEST COAST TO SHOW FEATURES OF TWO KINDS

Claudette Colbert and Edmund Lowe are seen together in "The Misleading Lady" which with another big feature picture, "The Avalanche" opens a two-day engagement at the Fox West Coast theater today.

The story of the "Misleading Lady" deals with an actress who in order to win a part in a big production, takes a wager that she can force a prominent scientist to propose marriage to her. She wins the bet but at the same time finds out that she has fallen in love with him. He learns of the hoax and takes her to a mountain resort where he chains her to a fireplace in a spirit of revenge.

A roaming manic comes to the cabin and manages to break in. From there until the end of the picture plenty of entertainment is promised.

"The Avalanche" concerns a lone weather observer on Mt. Blanc and the dull existence he leads up there alone suddenly comes to a quick ending and danger, thrills and a romance are his in a most unusual way.

"MONSTER WALKS" AT WALKER STATE

The latest horror picture from the Hollywood studios, "The Monster Walks," opens a two-day run today at Walker's State theater in conjunction with "Nice Women," featuring Sidney Fox.

According to advance reports, "The Monster Walks," provides the same sort of terrifying thrills that made "Frankenstein" the talk of the moviegoers some time back. The story tells of the efforts of one man to remove all possible heirs to a fortune left by the murderer's brother. His diabolical plot includes the use of a vicious gorilla but, in the end, his plot proves a boomerang and he is murdered by the same means he had chosen to do his dirty work.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

When all the play man's rugs were done, wee Scouty said, "Say! That was fun. I got my share of exercise and it made me feel great."

"Some muscles that went stale on me are now as active as can be. 'Tis well we rushed the job along 'cause it is getting late." The play man snapped, "Now, don't you fret. A real nice nap you're going to get. All of you run into my house, where you will find a bed."

"Come on, now, smile! Don't be forlorn. I'll let you snooze till early morn. Wee Scouty can sleep longer 'cause he is a sleepy head."

So, while the dark night came and went, a very pleasant time was spent by all the tired out Tintins. Then the sun rose. So did they. The play man served them porridge hot and every Tiny ate a lot. Then Scouty said, "What are we going to do this pretty day?"

The play man thought with all his might and then he said, "You'll see a sight that I am sure will please you. Come, you youngsters, follow me."

"Where is the big truck?" Copy said. Then up to them the strange truck sped. "I'm going to load my toys in tight," exclaimed the old play man.

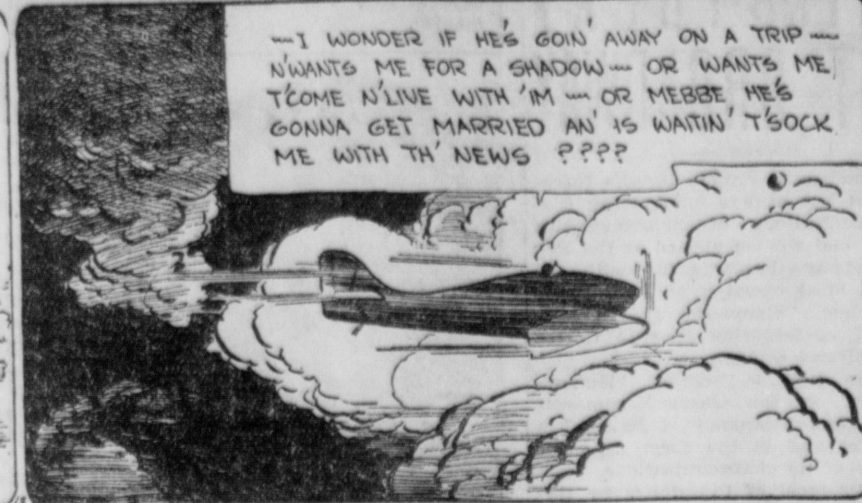

"Pull down that long plank. Make it fast and then my toys will file right past." The Tintins, now, were very thrilled. Up to the truck they ran.

Then, out came tops and skates, and such. The play man said, "Now, please don't touch. Just let them hike into the truck while we all stand around. You see, you've tried out all those tops. They're ready now for girls and boys. When my big truck is loaded, off to cities it is bound." (Old man play tells the Tintins a story next.)

AMERICA'S MOST FATEFUL DAY

Twenty-Four Hours
That Made History

By HENRY W. LAWRENCE

THE most fateful 24 hours in American history: from Saturday noon, March 8, 1862, to noon of the next day. On Saturday afternoon the North had lost the Civil War. On Sunday morning the North snatched victory back again; the South's big chance was gone forever.

And throughout the entire world, wherever there were navies, the news went forth from that tremendous 24 hours that wooden ships of war were doomed, that sea power must be built up anew, out of iron and steel.

The scene for this nation-making drama of the new armaments was in the waters of Virginia, where the James River flows into Chesapeake Bay; a shallow seaway known as Hampton Roads. The time, just past noon of a lovely spring day, March 8, 1862.

Out from Norfolk Harbor was moving slowly that menacing mystery ship, once a 40-gun steam frigate of the U. S. navy called the Merrimac, now rebuilt into the earliest of dreadnoughts, an ironclad, called by her new masters the Virginia.

To the North she was full of rumored peril. Stories were abroad that she could shatter and destroy any number of wooden vessels, without receiving any serious damage from their heaviest fire, and that she had little to fear from even the most formidable land batteries.

THE Northern fears, however, were no more extravagant than the Southern hopes. The orders given by the Confederate secretary of the navy, S. R. Mallory, to the vessel's commander, Franklin Buchanan, reflect these somewhat astonishingly high hopes.

"I submit for your consideration," he wrote, "the attack on New York by the Virginia. Can the Virginia steam to New York and attack and burn the city? She can, I doubt not, pass Old Point safely, and in good weather and a smooth sea she could doubtless go to New York."

"Once in the bay, she could shell and burn the city and the shipping. Such an event would eclipse all the glories of all the combats of the sea, would place every man in it pre-eminently high, and would strike a blow from which the enemy could never recover."

"Peace would inevitably follow. Can the ship go there? Please give me your views."

And now, on this pleasant day of early March, the Merrimac (as she is commonly called in history) was setting forth to make the great experiment, by attacking the fleet of wooden ships assembled near the batteries of Newport News, just across the Roads from

The action began at 8:45 a. m. and continued until about noon. . . . During all that time the two ships hammered away at one another at close range. . . . At noon the Merrimac withdrew.

Norfolk, the Confederate naval base.

Scarcely had the Merrimac left Norfolk Harbor, when the telegrams announcing her movements began to fly. "The Merrimack" (in the dispatches the final "k" is added to her name) "is being towed down by two steamers past Craney Island toward Sewell's Point, so reported to me from the Cumberland," wired the commanding officer at Newport News to his superior at Fortress Monroe on Old Point Comfort, the federal stronghold.

A few minutes later he wired, "The Merrimack is close at hand." And again, "The Merrimack is engaging the Cumberland at close quarters." The crisis had arrived.

THE federal warships Congress, 50 guns, and Cumberland, 30 guns, lying off Newport News, were about to be destroyed by the struck us under the starboard fore channels; she delivered her fire at the same time; the destruction was great. We returned the fire with solid shot with alacrity."

Thus rammed by the iron mystery ship, the Cumberland was done for, but she kept on in the hopeless fight against the antagonist she could not wound. Captain Buchanan of the Merrimac (he calls her the Virginia, of course), gives due credit for this gallantry in his report of the encounter, which reads as follows:

"On the 8th instant, at 11 a. m., the Virginia left navy yard, Norfolk, accompanied by the Raleigh and Beaufort, and proceeded to Newport News to engage the enemy's frigates Cumberland and Congress, gunboats and shore batteries.

"WHEN within less than a mile of the Cumberland, the Virginia commenced the engagement with that ship with her bow gun, and the action soon became general, the Cumberland, Congress, gunboats, and shore batteries concentrating upon us their heavy fire, which was returned with great spirit and determination."

"The Virginia stood rapidly on toward the Cumberland, which ship I had determined to sink with our prow, if possible. In about 15 minutes after the action commenced we ran into her starboard bow; the crash below the water was distinctly heard, and she commenced sinking, gallantly fighting her guns as long as they were above water. She went down with her colors flying."

"Having sunk the Cumberland, I turned our attention to the Congress," continues the report. This was about 3:30, and by 4 o'clock this vessel, having been battered to a pulp, was forced to surrender, and later was burned.

Meanwhile the big Minnesota had rushed over from Fortress Monroe to aid her suffering sister ships, and had succeeded only in running hard aground about a mile away from the scene of action. Here she was attacked by the Merrimac, at long range because shallow water made closer approach impossible, and by two

On a Saturday afternoon the North had lost the Civil War, but on Sunday morning the South's great chance was gone forever with the crippling of the Merrimac by the Monitor in the battle that spelled the doom of wooden navies smaller Confederate vessels, who inflicted considerable damage upon her.

At 7 o'clock, darkness and the ebbing tide caused the triumphant ironclad to withdraw across the Roads to her anchorage, where she awaited the following day to finish the job so well begun.

IT had been a wonderful day for the Southern cause. The Merrimac had easily destroyed two ships of war formerly considered formidable, and this, too, notwithstanding the fact that they had been powerfully aided by shore batteries. No wonder the North was filled with alarm.

Every seaboard city was considered in imminent danger, and there were high officials in Washington who were all ready to flee from that menaced city. General McClellan reported that he would probably have to change the entire plan of his Virginia campaign, just begun.

But that night another warship dropped anchor in Hampton Roads—the new Monitor, commanded by Lieutenant John L. Worden. And the next morning the Monitor, standing by the stranded Minnesota, spied the Merrimac coming out to renew the engagement of the day before, and steamed out to meet her.

The action between the two ships began at 8:45 a. m. and continued until about noon. During all that time the two ironclads hammered away at one another at close range. The Merrimac, clumsy to maneuver and hampered by shallow water, tried unsuccessfully to ram her antagonist.

Lieutenant Worden was injured when a shell burst against the Monitor's pilot house just as he was peering out of the slit that served as window, and his second in command took charge during the remainder of the action.

AT noon the Merrimac withdrew to Norfolk, leaving the Monitor in possession of the field. The Confederate ship went into dry dock that afternoon.

She had been badly battered, her ram had been knocked off, her armor somewhat damaged, all her boats shot away and two of her guns destroyed; but her officers, reporting that the engagement had ended only when the Monitor withdrew into shallow water where the deep-draft Merrimac could not pursue her, considered the battle at least a draw.

In its ultimate effects, however, the engagement was a stupendous Northern victory. For it prevented the Merrimac from carrying out her limitless plans for destruction against a helpless wooden navy, and gave the North time to outbuild the South in the new ironclads. The panic that had seized the North was dissipated.

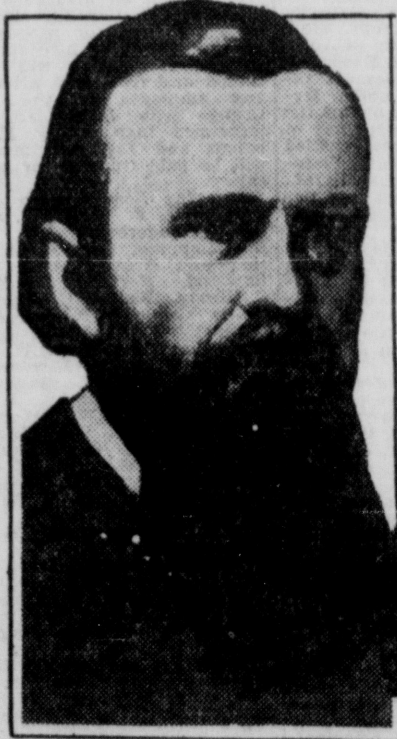

The effect of the battle on naval design has been slightly overestimated. To be sure, when the news reached England the London Times commented editorially:

"Whereas we had available for immediate purposes 149 first-class warships, we have now two, these two being the Warrior and her sister, Ironside. There is not now a ship in the English navy, aside from these two, that it would not be madness to trust to an engagement with that little Monitor."

NEVERTHELESS, naval experts had already known that the day of the ironclad was about to dawn, and recent researches in the naval archives of Paris, London and Washington have shown that it was really France that played the leading role in the introduction of armored vessels.

Napoleon III, emperor of France, from experiences and observations in the Crimean War (1854-1856) had stopped all construction of wooden ships, and in 1860, with the armored ship Gloire, French constructors had solved the problem of the seagoing ironclad. At the time of the Monitor-Merrimac fight, nearly 100 ironclads were built, building or authorized in the navy yards of Europe.

That fight merely taught the man in the street what naval experts already knew—that the wooden navies of the world were doomed. Strangely enough, however, the North had let the South get the jump on it in the matter of using this knowledge, and managed to avert a major disaster only by rushing through the construction of the Monitor at the last minute.

irresistible Merrimac. This is how the Cumberland's commander reported the action:

"At 1 p. m. the enemy hove in sight, gradually nearing us; the ironclad steamer Merrimac, accompanied by two steam gunboats, passed ahead of the frigate Congress and stood down toward us."

"We opened fire on her; she stood on and

MORAL BANKRUPTCY

When Charles Lindbergh Jr. was kidnapped more than one person was consoled by a remnant of confidence in human nature. The most popular baby in the United States could not be concealed anywhere. It seemed that every man, woman, and child in the United States, except the beasts who had perpetrated the crime would be on the watch for the baby. There even was assurance from the "underworld" that the kidnappers were so contemptuous of the kidnappers of little children that the strength and power of gangland was behind the search for the child and the perpetrators of this crime.

But now comes the disillusionment. Today we see the pass to which greed for money will drive people. Instead of all of the people of the country being united against the kidnappers there were those who were willing to take advantage of a grief-stricken father, a beloved hero, to get some gold. Since such a thing has happened there is no denying that the country is morally bankrupt. The better impulses have been lost in the primary interest of getting a little money.

"In justice to my wife and two children," says Mr. Curtis in his confession, "I trust that it is in the power of Colonel Lindbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry, and injustice I did him in his time of grief." One burns with a desire to ask Curtis the logical question why he has the right to expect Colonel Lindbergh to be more considerate of his family than Curtis has been of either Colonel Lindbergh's family or his own.

This is a time for a hardening of our hearts against such appeals when they come from men who are themselves devoid of moral scruples. There are two classes of people, with many on the borderline between. There are those who are sympathetic, who avoid giving pain, who sacrifice themselves for others, who aim to observe the Golden Rule, who are open to appeals from those who are needy and suffering. Opposed to them are the moral bankrupts; the people who take advantage of the kindness in the world, who depend upon the world to save their own families from their wrong-doing just as Curtis is attempting to do.

Events of the last few weeks have inspired a determination to no longer waste kindness. There is even a determination to husband kindness and sympathy and harden the heart against those who have only remote claims upon society. Such determination will augment the cause of those who would find it utterly impossible to do such a thing as Mr. Curtis has done.

The best way to avoid lending money is to pretend to be asleep, a wisecracker says. Another way would be to tell all your friends you used to be a banker.

ONE WAY TO SURVIVE (?)

The United States Daily, published and edited by David Lawrence, which publishes in detail all the activities of the United States Government and the activities of Congress, has been feeling the depression. Its subscription rate has been $10 per year.

Naturally, a publication of this character has a rather limited field. Advertising is limited, so it is dependent for its support largely upon its subscription rate. In the desperate situation in which the daily finds itself, the publisher has increased the subscription rate from $10 to $50 per year, thinking thereby to save the publication from suspension. If enough subscriptions at that rate can be held, it may survive.

This is a daring move, and it will be interesting to watch the result. As a usual experience, to raise the price of any commodity limits its purchase. Undoubtedly the United States Daily will find its circulation dropping at the increased rate. Whether the increased rate will be offset by so great a loss of subscriptions that the income will be more or less is always an interesting speculation. From past experience in such matters, we are inclined to believe that the United States Daily is on the way out. It has filled a place. There are interests in the country which need the information given by the Daily; but probably all the interests vitally concerned in the activities at Washington have a lobby which keeps in touch with all legislation or decisions of the various government boards. To such lobbies, the Daily will not be a vital necessity. The question is whether there are interests of sufficient number who will want the paper at the increased price. In other words, will the United States Daily survive?

CRITICISM OF OUR PRESIDENTS

Our Presidents have always been the object of criticism. This of necessity is inevitable. The President is the representative of a party, and the party in opposition, by the very nature of party government, must act in the role of critic. The President, unlike the British King, is not above parties. Those who have been observant of political affairs are aware of the criticism that has been leveled at every president.

But Chester Rowell, in a recently syndicated article, points out that Mr. Hoover has been the most criticized President since Abraham Lincoln, and that the most viciously criticized President of the whole line was George Washington. If that be the case, it might seem as if Herbert Hoover would go down in history as one of the great Presidents of the country. The people of today hear nothing but eulogistic panegyrics of Washington and Lincoln. It hardly seems possible to conceive that these great and exalted leaders were once the object of such furious and scandalous criticism. Whether Mr. Hoover will take his place alongside of the two great Americans, however, will depend not upon the criticism leveled at him, but upon the success with which he will meet the terrific problems of the present. It was not the criticism of Washington or of Lincoln that has enshrined them in the hearts of all Americans, but the greatness of the results achieved by them even in the face of the bitter and biting criticisms.

Mr. Hoover might well repeat the words of Washington when he said, "Nor did I believe that every act of my administration would be tortured, and the grossest and most insidious misrepresentations of them would be made." No doubt Mr. Hoover has been unjustly criticized. This is the fate of the party representative. But Mr. Hoover will find his place in the line of American Presidents after his retirement, not in the light of the criticism unjustly hurled at him, but in the light of his statesmanlike conduct of the affairs of his high office. If he can endure the criticism of himself and his policies in the light of that great fact, he ought to take courage from the experience of his much-maligned predecessors in high office. Ultimately, the conduct of statesmen will find candid and impartial judgment from the final historian and succeeding generations. The sensitive President will suffer much, altogether too much, unless he bears that fact in mind.

Feathers, Eggs and Mules

Christian Science Monitor

Statistics often make dull reading. Once in a while, however, they burst with interest approaching that of a "mystery" play and galvanize an indifferent audience into lively curiosity.

Consider, if you please, recent figures issued from the Department of Agriculture in Washington revealing the queerest disparity in the prices of things animate and inanimate in various sections of the United States.

Just why must housewives on the Atlantic seaboard pay twenty-two cents a pound for chicken when their lucky sisters in North Dakota get it for nine? There is, of course, the obvious answer to the puzzle even though its consolation be but scanty. The Rhode Island Red—the higher price is the one ruling in the Union's smallest state—is a bird of very fine, not to say expensive, feather.

When it comes to eggs one is less surprised, although the range of cost, jumping from seven cents in favored Texas to twenty-two in Massachusetts, is a bit startling. But then, there always has been so much difference in eggs themselves. For example, in the days of "rotten" boroughs in England, when electioneering lacked that finer sensibility so conspicuous in our modern politician, thrifty shopkeepers in the vicinity of the hustings displayed signs which read: "New-laid eggs, two shillings a dozen; fresh eggs, one shilling a dozen; eggs for election purposes, tuppence a dozen."

There is a silver lining, though, to this dark cloud of untoward prices. It is seen in Montana. A resident of New York with a hankering for a mule must first find $114 in order to indulge his fancy. If fortunate enough to live in the "Bonanza" State the trifling sum of $34 will bring one to his backyard gate. And considering the suspense in action and the "kick" which any self-respecting mule can contribute to the comedy of daily driving, the latter price seems all too low.

In Defense of Vagabonds

San Francisco Chronicle

If it may be done without incurring contempt of court the suggestion is offered that the New York judge who refused to charter a club under the name "Long Island Vagabonds" and suggested "Loyalty League" as a substitute was a little unimaginative.

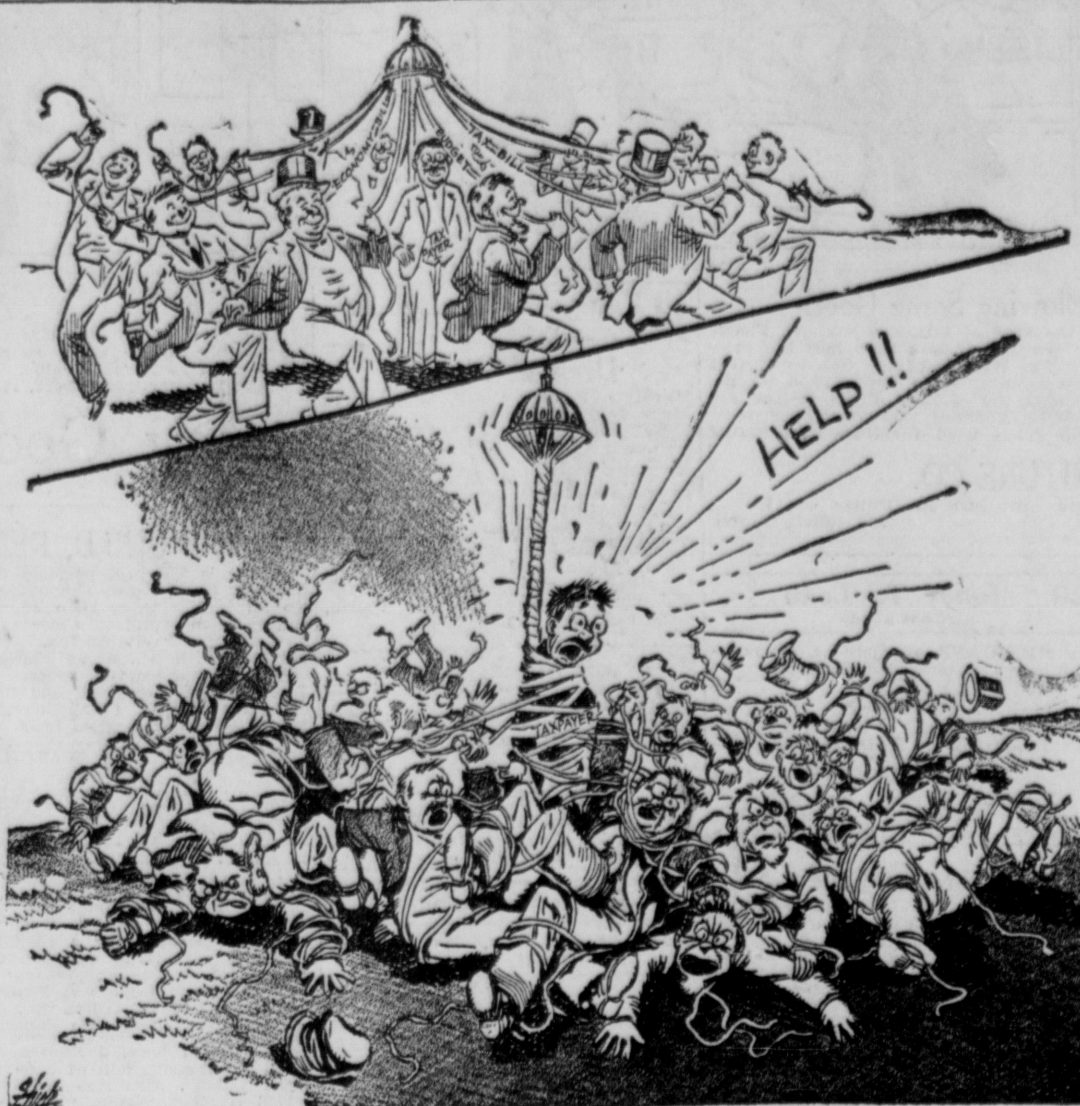

Of the various shades of meaning of which the word "vagabond" is susceptible one, it is true, carries the implication of lack of dignity to which the judge objected. But Vagabondia is a large and vague country to which most of us flee at times at least in fancy. There, we like to think, the collectors cease from troubling and the weary can loiter about in comfortable togs even if Friend Wife has two tickets to an uplift lecture at the community center.

Not without its lure is the definition of an old English statute which says that vagabonds are "Such as wake on the night and sleep on the day, and haunt customary taverns and alehouses, and rout about; and no man wot from whence they came, nor whither they go." The life implied might have its delights especially if fortified with modern plumbing, golf courses and straight eight.

Even without these it is dreamed of by the tired business man and others who, in a little make-believe Vagabondia, at times find an alternative for the rigorous medicine of modern speed and hurry. If the New York judge's dictum is well founded then Bliss Carman's "Songs From Vagabondia" should be thrown out of the public libraries and the theaters should have been closed to "The Vagabond King."

"Let us pretend," say children, and men are but children of a larger growth according to a famous authority. O stern and just judge and other guardians of dignity, let those who so desire play they are making excursions into Vagabondia. A little make-believe may be good for the soul in this harried world.

THE COME-ON

If I look at a dotted line
The sheet it's on in bits I tear
For fear I'll take my pen and sign
The old John Hancock, then and there.
When salesmen call me on the phone
I pack my suit-case right away
And quickly leave for parts unknown;
I know they'll get me if I stay.

I lack in riches, goodness knows,
But past the shadow of a doubt
The things I haven't got are those
Which I can get along without.
But when a chill hypnotic eye
Casts on me its compelling spell
I always feel constrained to buy
The thing its owner has to sell.

I do not need a car this year;
The old one looks both trim and neat,
And travels smoothly, but I fear
To pass a dealer on the street.
If I so much as said "Hello!"—
I tell you this with shame and sorrow—
I can't explain it but I know
I'd have a brand-new car tomorrow.

I hide beneath the cellar stair
What time I hear the door-bell ring.
For fear a salesman will be there
And sell me some unneeded thing.
I have all sorts of odds and ends
That are not worth a tinker's dam,
And you, like almost all my friends,
Will think I'm silly—which I am.

The doughboys have an easier job this time. They can save the country just by letting it alone.

If gangsters really tried to kidnap a Los Angeles crooner, they probably get their pay in advance.

The discovery of an occasional rich panhandler shows how many Americans will pay two bits to get rid of a nuisance.

The depression can't last. No matter what the fate is, Americans eventually get bored and drop it.

Capitalism can survive only so long as the little fellow hopes to get rich by supporting it.

LEAP YEAR IS THE ONE WHEN WOMEN DO THE PROPOSING WITHOUT PRETENDING THAT MEN DO IT.

How strange that a dollar now buys more of everything until the tax collector gets hold of it.

A short-seller appears to be especially reprehensible if the sounder belongs to the other party.

America has made another nice disarmament gesture. It has offered to abolish the heavy land artillery it hasn't got.

AMERICANISM: The kind of democracy that makes you hate the stuck-up fellow above you and despise the impudent climber beneath you.

They say noise makes people work faster. Certainly Congressional investigators perk up when they find a little political thunder.

Newspapers tell about a London cat that sings. It is news because few singers in these times are catty.

Never yet has the world failed to heed a great and good reformer who asked no money for his labors.

THE HUMAN CHIN GRADUALLY DISAPPEARING? GREAT GUNS! WHAT WILL A CELEBRITY HOLD UP WITH HIS RIGHT HAND WHILE BEING PHOTOGRAPHED.

The law could at least prohibit machine guns. Gangsters can't make those in the bath tub.
Give Tom Hefflin credit. He made the Senate give five hours of its time to a man pleading for a job.
A hick town is a place where the few citizens willing to serve the public without pay are cursed for trying to run things.
Little lesson for the world: Man will have his nose on a grindstone or his knife on a whetstone.

Little Benny's

Note Book
by Leo Pape

Me and Lucky Leroy Shooter was sitting on my front steps talking about different subjects such as taking dars, Leroy saying, I'll take any dare you dare me if you take any dare I dare you.

O kay, go ahead and dare me something, I said, and Leroy said, All right, I dare you to stop the next lady that goes passed and ask her how old she is.

All right, I'll ask her no matter how old she is, I said.
The next lady that went passed being a kind of a fat one with a little round hat and an extra lot of powder on her nose, looking like a lady about 60 years old wishing she was much younger, me going up to her saying, Excuse me, lady, would you mind telling me how old you are?

What's that, what do you mean by asking me such a question, why do you want to know? the lady said, and I said, To decide a bet.

Well I'm not as old as I look but I'm old enough to know a fresh little brat when I see one, the lady said.

Meaning none of my business, she said and tried to hit me with her rolled up umbrella but I dodged it easy and sat down on the steps again, saying to Leroy, Now I'll dare you, I dare you to stop the next man that goes passed and ask him if he has change for a cent.

Which he did, being a fearsome looking man with a turn up mustash, Leroy saying, Excuse me, mister, can you change a cent?

Why, yes, I think so, let's see the color of your money, the man said. And Leroy took a cent out of his pants pocket and showed it to him and the man took it and opened his pocketbook and gave Leroy a little piece of money with holes in them, saying, These are Chinese yen, or sen, or chop soole or something, I'm tired of carrying them around and I believe they're exactly the change for one cent.

And he kept on going with Leroy's cent and Leroy went up to the store where they sell stamps and old wore out money, and the man took the Chinese money and gave him 7 cents for it.

Proving a naturally lucky person can be any ways etc.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today.

MAY 18, 1918

Walter L. Kaufman, automobile spotlight manufacturer of Santa Ana, was granted a patent on an automatic spotlight bracket.

Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan, pastor, at San Juan Capistrano Mission, left for a several weeks' trip which would include a visit in his former home, Louisville, Ky.

Senior girls of the 1918 graduating class of the high school announced their resolve to limit the cost of commencement dresses to $10.50. The dresses were to be made with long sleeves, and the skirts were to be 10 inches from the floor. Boys of the class were considering corduroy trousers and blue shirts. There were between 80 and 90 members of the class.

Santa Ana members of the Sierra club invited any friends who might like to join them, on the club trip to the top of Saddleback which was to take place May 25. Thirty Los Angeles members of the club were expected to be here for the climb.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

TOWARDS BUSINESS PLANNING

I do not know any really far-sighted banker, business man, or industrialist who does not believe that the future must see some restrictions thrown around the old laissez faire policies of economic America and some measure of broad planning introduced.

The rub comes when an attempt is made to say who shall do the planning.

The political-minded student considers a marked increase in governmental control of financial, business and industrial policy as inevitable.

The business-minded student insists that private initiative can do the job better.

I am willing to join the business-minded student for the time being until it becomes clear whether private initiative is going to act.

If business does not itself bring the old laissez faire policy into harmony with the manifest needs of the time, then I shall be compelled to join the political-minded student, despite my skepticism of the economic wisdom of the average politician.

For this reason I have read with eager interest Ernest F. Dührer's trenchant and timely article in The Commonwealth for April 27, in which he makes four specific suggestions for action by American business.

In the direction of economic planning. These are:

First, the 300 largest corporations, financial and non-financial, should each set up a business research staff of its own, headed by an adequately able research director and management advisor.

Second, the 300 largest corporations should create and finance a central research staff of an intensely practical sort, made up of men who could command the confidence of the nation, and granted great freedom in their work.

Third, the managers of these 300 largest corporations should school themselves to agree in actions conforming to the findings of these research staffs.

Fourth, the great trade associations should establish business research staffs to co-operate with the two sets of staffs just indicated, distributing the findings down to the smallest units in the great trade fields, and actively promoting the use of the findings.

Mr. Dührer begins with the 300 largest corporations because the great concentration of power in their hands puts the heaviest of responsibilities upon them for leadership towards the necessary introduction of planning broader than the planning of separate plants.

THOSE BAD CHILDREN

Did you ever stop to think that your children were as bad as those next door seemed to be to you? It might happen.

Two mothers called on the principal of a big school within an hour and each complained of the badness of the other's children. "I try my best to bring up my children but if they are to associate with such young ones as those who live next door I don't see what I'm to do."

"Their mother doesn't seem to know what is going on. Those children beat the others, they use bad words, they break up the games the others play,—if you say a word to them they sass right back. Will you please see that my children don't associate with them at all? Take Billy out of that class and put him in another."

With scarcely a variation the two complaints were made in dead earnest. The burden of the story was the same, "My children are good. If it weren't for the other children in the world I could get along fine. Now you take care of the other children and mine will be all right."

If life were only as easy as that. If living alone were life in perfection, how easy that would be. Unfortunately life must be lived in common with the rest of humanity. One cannot go to a cloister and still remain in the world. Children, like grownup people, must learn to live as comfortable as possible with other people. You cannot eliminate anybody. If the children next door move away others come, and the result is the same. Friction and misunderstanding and trouble.

Why, yes, I think so, let's see the color of your money, the man said. And Leroy took a cent out of his pants pocket and showed it to him and the man took it and opened his pocketbook and gave Leroy a little piece of money with holes in them, saying, These are Chinese yen, or sen, or chop soole or something, I'm tired of carrying them around and I believe they're exactly the change for one cent.
